AMERICA AROUSED BY NAZI PERSECUTIONS

A sensation has been created in Holland by the report of a special commission revealing that the Zuider Zee reclamation may prove a failure. It has been ascertained that the great pumping machines are unable to keep the soil dry. Photo shows a big pump-house.

AIR CRASH EXPLOSION

TWELVE KILLED IN CALIFORNIA

DESTROYED

New York, Mar. 26.

Twelve persons were killed as the result of a shocking tragedy at Oakland, California, to-day, the sequel to an air smash.

An entire family of six in one house was wiped out. The crash of the plane was followed by a terrific explosion which killed the three occupants instantly.

The machine was flying very low during bad weather and suddenly nose-dived to earth. The collision was followed by an explosion of such violence that only one person out of the ten occupying three private houses just by escaped.

HOUSES CATCH FIRE.

Two of the houses caught fire and were destroyed, a family of six being trapped and burned to death in one of them.

The victims of the extraordinary mishap were the pilot and two passengers, two children and seven adults in the row of private houses near which the crash occurred. The accident, according to police, was due to low flying during a rainstorm.—Reuter.

BRITISH PLAN OF DISARMAMENT

FIGURES CAPABLE OF

Angora, Mar. 26.

An interview took place to-day between the British Charge D'Affaires and the Turkish Foreign Minister on the subject of the British draft convention submitted to the Disarmament Conference.

The British envoy explained that the British Plan is open to discussion and that the aircraft figures are capable of modification.—Reuter.

KINGSFORD SMITH FLIGHT

SYDNEY

Sydney, March 26.

Air Commodore Kingsford Smith landed here at 5.10 p.m. to-day having flown the twelve hundred miles from New Zealand in 11 hours 40 minutes.—Reuter.

HIGH INDIGNATION AMONG JEWS

IN HUMANITY"

TALK OF A PROTEST

(SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH.")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, March 27, 7.46 a.m.)

WASHINGTON, MARCH 26.

THE INDIGNATION OF THE JEWS OF AMERICA AS A RESULT OF THE ALLEGED PERSECUTION OF JEWS IN GERMANY IS ENGAGING THE CLOSE ATTENTION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

It is officially stated that the State Department is taking great care to avoid a possible misunderstanding. The United States' attitude to recent developments is that it desires to be helpful, but is deeply interested in the welfare of humanity.

Accordingly, the information received from the American Embassy and Consulates in Germany will be withheld until the record is complete.

There has been some talk of the possibility of an official protest being lodged.—Reuter.

NAZIS STIR UP HORNET'S NEST

AROUSE FEELING

BOYCOTT

London, Mar. 26.

The anti-Jewish excesses and official persecution of Jews in Germany is causing grave concern abroad. Marked hostility to the Nazi regime is manifest in many centres as a direct result.

A boycott of German goods has been declared by the Jews of Poland, where they constitute a considerable proportion of the population and the movement is spreading rapidly throughout the country.

Agitation for a boycott of German goods is also marked among the American Jews, although a message from Cologne states that as far as can be ascertained anti-Jewish excesses are not now occurring in the Rhineland, where the American members of the Cologne branch of the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany have drafted a cable to the National Chamber of Commerce in Washington deprecating the boycott of German goods and declaring that there has been no interference with American citizens, firms or property.

LONDON MEETING.

Strong feeling is also apparent in England. A meeting was held to-day in London of the Jewish Board of Deputies, representing the Jews of the British Empire.

The meeting decided not to support as a body the boycott of German goods as a protest against the treatment of Jews in Germany, but to take all steps possible to secure recognition of the rights of Jews in Germany to freedom and justice.

The reactions among the Nazis of the widespread demonstration against the anti-Jewish measures undertaken by them are awaited with considerable interest by all sections in England.—Reuter.

MURDERER POLICE CHIEF.

Berlin, Mar. 26.

A number of new Nazi Police Presidents appointed in Prussia to-day include ex-Lieutenant

Haines, who becomes Police Chief at Breslau. Haines was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment with hard labour for the murder of a suspected traitor in the so-called "Black Reichswehr" some years ago. The sentence was reduced to five years, but he was released within two years and became a fanatical Nazi member of the Reichstag.

The Thuringian Minister of Education has ordered the removal from the National Theatre at Weimar of the plaque commemorating the adoption there of the Weimar Constitution.

The police have placed 270 alleged Communists under arrest at Stuttgart and have sent them to an internment camp at Neuberg.—Reuter.

DR. HODGKIN'S DEATH

A LEADING CHINA
MISSIONARY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, March 27, 7.46 a.m.)

London, Mar. 26.

The death had occurred of Dr. Henry Theodore Hodgkin, who was at one time Secretary of the National Christian Council in China.

The late Dr. Hodgkin was Director of Study of Pendle Hill, the Quaker Graduate School of Social and Religious Study, of Wallingford, Pa., U.S.A. Born in 1877, he was a nephew of the late Dr. Thomas Hodgkin, the historian. Educated in England, he was Chairman of the Student Volunteer Missionary Union from 1902 to 1905, and went to Chengtu, West China, as a medical missionary in the latter year. Later he returned to England and took up the position of Secretary of the Friends' Foreign Mission Association, which he held from 1910 to 1920, during which period he was also Secretary of the Board of Governors of the West China Union University.

He made extensive tours of India, Madagascar, Syria and America, lecturing on industrial, international and religious questions. From 1922 to 1923, he was Secretary of the National Christian Council of China, with headquarters at Shanghai. He was winner of the Walker Prize (University of St. Andrews) for his essay on Social Reconstruction, and was the author of numerous publications.—Reuter.

FORD STRIKE AT DAGENHAM

PROTEST AGAINST WAGE CUTS

London, Mar. 27.

Several hundred employees of the huge Ford Works at Dagenham came out on strike last night as a protest against wage cuts.

It is stated that the cuts were enforced in the works last week. The strikers consist of the majority of the night-shift.—Reuter.

FEDERAL INDIA PLANS

MOSLEM BOARD
HOSTILE

DEMANDED

New Delhi, Mar. 27.

The Executive Board of the Moslem Conference, after a long discussion on the British Government's proposals for the future constitution of the India Federation, decided to come out in opposition.

A resolution was passed by the Board expressing the profound dissatisfaction of the Moslems with the White Paper.

The Moslems are prepared to consider it anew if radical changes are made. They demand, among other things, a severe curtailment of the powers granted to the Provincial Governors and the Governor-General.—Reuter.

The fourth wicket fell at 186, the partnership between Kerr and Page adding 33 runs, Kerr's share being seventeen. He was smartly taken by Hammond off Brown's bowling.

Ten runs later, James was given out leg before wicket to Tate.

AMERICAN GOLD EMBARGO

DECISION EXPECTED TO-DAY

Washington, Mar. 26.
The eagerly-awaited announcement by the Treasury Department in regard to the embargo on the export of gold and silver is expected to be made on Monday. General expectations are that the embargo will be modified if not entirely removed.—Reuter.

ITALY AND ANGOLA

LISBON'S ALARM
DISPELLED

Lisbon, Mar. 26.

Fears recently expressed of possible Italian encroachment upon Portuguese colonial territory in Africa have been set at rest.

Signor Mussolini has no territorial designs on the colonial possessions of Portugal according to a declaration received from Rome by the Portuguese Government.

Il Duce declares that he has never expressed any ambition to possess Angola or any other Portuguese possession in Africa and he assures the Portuguese Government of his feeling of great friendship for the country "whose colonial efforts towards progress are appreciated and respected throughout the world."—Reuter.

SHIP RUNS INTO JUNK

MAN BELIEVED DROWNED

A drowning tragedy occurred in Capsumun Pass last night, the victim being the younger brother of the master of a cargo boat which was sunk after a collision with an unknown steamer, according to a report issued at Police Headquarters this morning.

The master, Wong Fat, was picked up by the s.s. Tin Ting, returning to port, after a terrifying ordeal in the water for many hours. He was rescued in an exhausted condition, but recovered sufficiently to relate his story to the police at Tsun Wan.

In his report to the police, the master stated that at about 7.15 last night, he was sailing from Nam Tao to Hongkong, and when in Capsumun Pass an unknown steamer collided with his craft, which filled rapidly and sank. He and his younger brother, Kwong Chung, were thrown into the sea. The master did not see his brother, who is believed to have been drowned. Although a search was made in the vicinity of the tragedy the body was not recovered.

SOVIET INTERNESS
IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, March 27.
Having been interned for several weeks in Soviet territory where they were forced to take refuge by the victorious Japanese troops, over a hundred and fifty members of the families of the Kirin Volunteers under the command of General Wang Teh-lin were brought to Shanghai from the North by steamer yesterday.

The party including women and children, including the family of General Wang Teh-lin. General Wang himself is at present in Moscow with General Su Ping-wan.—Reuter.

BAIL REFUSED

Moscow, March 26.

The Public Prosecutor has refused to accept the offer of Metropolitan Vickers to stand bail for all its employees, British and Russian, arrested in connexion with the sabotage allegations.

The refusal is based on the ground that the offer contained an unwarranted expression of opinion on the innocence of the accused and the necessity for a trial.—Reuter.

SOVIET ATTITUDE.

The Tass Agency reports M. Litvinoff, the Commissar for Foreign Affairs, as saying:

"Concretely and practically, the proposal claims of Britain amount to a proposal to exempt from Soviet jurisdiction all British subjects, thereby warranting them to commit any crime with impunity and authorising delinquencies on their part."

In such a situation an investigation of a charge of crime brought against an Englishman would have to be stopped the moment his government expressed a conviction of his innocence, despite available data and proofs and in discharge even of the depositions of the accused.

"It is sufficient to formulate such proposals," M. Litvinoff continued, "for it to be obvious that they are unacceptable to any government of an independent country and cannot be discussed."

DATA AND PROOFS.

"In the event that there exists data and proofs that a crime is being committed by someone, the authorities responsible for the observance of the laws and the safety of a country are obliged to take measures for the prevention of the crime, to verify at an inquiry the data and proofs and in this manner establish the guilt or innocence of the accused and the motives for the crime."

"This is the inevitable procedure in all countries. It is not only in the U.S.S.R. that foreigners are arrested. Abroad, quite recently, there have occurred cases of the arrest and sentence of foreigners holding quite prominent positions and charges against foreign representatives of large banks. Such happenings cannot be avoided and they should not be permitted to influence international relations."

PAST EXPERIENCE.

"In the U.S.S.R.," proceeded M. Litvinoff, "there are living hundreds and thousands of Germans, Americans and other foreign nationals who suffer no persecution. During the period of the existence of relations between the U.S.S.R. and Great Britain, hundreds of Englishmen have arrived in the U.S.S.R., lived here and departed without once being subjected to arrest. Finally, the representatives of Metropolitan Vickers have lived here nearly ten years and hitherto nothing has happened to them. Such measures as arrest and prosecution are adopted by our authorities only for serious cause and when in the interests of safety and the safeguarding of State property. It would be wrong if such episodes were to affect political and commercial relations between the U.S.S.R. and Great Britain which are equally profitable to both countries."

"The accused Britons are to be charged under Article 58 of the Soviet Criminal Code. The investigation is said to be approaching an end and the State Political Department will transmit the case shortly to the Supreme Court of the U.S.S.R. where the case will be heard."

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

WOMEN WHO WILL NOT REST.

The Necessity for Repose.

"I'm never off my feet!" How often this plaint of the worried, hard-worked housewife is heard! How true it is—and how unnecessary!

Granted that much of her work must be done "on her feet," that she must stand for such things as bed-making, sweeping, dusting, &c. Yet there remains a great deal that can be done just as well sitting down.

Take, for instance, all the work at a kitchen sink. A woman, no matter how tired, will stand day after day over the sink, without apparently realising that she could peel potatoes, wash up, clean fish and vegetables, and do the hundred and one other sink jobs equally efficiently were she seated. Similarly, there is no need to stand to mix cakes or puddings or roll pastry at the kitchen table.

The best seat for these places is a high office stool. It has neither back nor arms to get in one's way, and it takes up the minimum of space. Should there be a separate kitchen and scullery, then there should be two stools, one always ready at the sink and the other by the table. A chair is not so suitable for the purpose, for one needs to sit rather high above one's work, and experiments should be made with sink, stool, and table to ascertain the most comfortable height, then the stool legs can be cut accordingly.

It is a queer thing, but the more overdone a woman is the less she seems capable of resting! Instead of seizing every occasion for conserving her precious nervous energy, she lets slip one golden opportunity after another. The kettle is not quite on the boil perhaps, or a dish in the oven needs a few more minutes. Everything else is ready—and the woman waits "hanging over" the fire! "It's only a minute or two," she says, "it's not worth sitting down."

Minutes, however, mount up wonderfully quickly into hours, and, if used aright, these intervals throughout the day will make all the difference between work accomplished without undue fatigue and work that brings her near to breaking point.

Absolute repose should be the rule for these breathing spaces—repose in an easy chair (a light bentwood rocker is excellent), with eyes closed, feet up on the fender, and every muscle relaxed to the uttermost.

A Housewife's Notes

To retain the colour and flavour of carrots, wash and boil before peeling.

When cooking vegetable marrow bake the marrow instead of boiling with the skin on, which keeps it free from water.

Dried orange skins and also grape fruit skins make good fire-lighters.

Soft soap, mixed with bees' wax and turpentine, makes a good floor polish.

Joan Crawford.

Hollywood.—The sports dress and top coat ensemble is making headway here as a runabout outfit.

Joan Crawford has a gray tweed two-piece of this type, the dress very simple, with square neckline, buttoned down one corner with three metal buttons, the skirt's fullness coming in kick pleats in the centre of the front and back. The topcoat is very, very English, with mannish cut, patch pockets, and three-quarters length. She has a squareish beret of the same gray tweed, a beret that is different.

No single type of costume can be upheld as the thing to wear anywhere, in Hollywood. The variety of costumes is what creates things interesting. Take luncheon, for instance. This week these varied costumes loomed as mighty smart on their wearers.

Claudette Colbert, back from New York minus her sinus trouble lunching in the Paramount Cafe wearing a black and white diagonal plaid dress, with a light fitting black crepe jacket, and a black ribbon hat, tiny, with fringed bow at the top of it.

Barbara Kent, lunching at the Brown Derby, smart as a picture in a gray wool spring suit with skirt and three-quarters coat, gray felt hat and gray shoes.

Gretchen Wilson, going into the RKO, wearing a brilliant red dress and topcoat to match, with an equally brilliant red turban.

Diana Wynyard, at Sard's wearing a sleek black crepe dress, with exquisite lingerie touches, a tiny black hat tilted over her right eye and a mink coat.

EVENING GOWNS.

White satin evening gowns have all the cachet of frocks made to be worn after dark. And white satin evening gowns are very much in the picture just now. Grey satin is perfect for a large dinner.

If you don't wish to appear in a deeply-cut out evening gown, a little lace jacket-bodice, veils the back and shoulders.

Evening gowns follow the high-front trend, and jewellery and scarves should be planned to take these lines into consideration in both evening and day ensembles. If choker affects in jewellery suit you, this is the time to wear them.

There is very little costume jewellery in the collections this year. I notice a tendency, when jewelled motifs are used at all, to incorporate them into the model itself.

A thin circle of strass in the front of an evening gown is seen, for instance, weaving two coloured scarves through and through it.

Big brooches are being worn on evening gowns, and crystal bracelets, fat and round, in shades matching the gown or contrasting with it. Ebony bracelets are favoured by some women to accompany black frocks.

There is a tentative revival in Paris of the fashion of wearing flowers in the hair. There are new wreaths of daisies, ranunculus, or small gardenias, for the evening coiffure. This is a fashion which may be charming, or it may be a terrible mistake.

BAIL FOR PRISONERS. ENGLISH ENGINEERS HELD BY SOVIET

Moscow, Mar. 26.

Having unsuccessfully approached various authorities with a view to offering bail for the arrested English and Russian prisoners, Mr. Monkhouse was cogitating the next step when he unexpectedly received a telephone call ordering him as one of the accused to appear at the Lubyanka Prison for examination. This apparently indicates that Monkhouse and Nordwall, though released, will be tried with the others.

Mr. Monkhouse intends to profit by the opportunity at the Lubyanka to offer bail for his colleagues.

There are six Englishmen affected. Monkhouse and Nordwall were released early. Thornton, Gregory, Cushey, and MacDonald are in custody.

CHAPTER XXXVI

Fate took a hand in Sheila's affairs with the abruptness that is often Fate's way.

"She had been idle for weeks now. If anyone had asked, Sheila would have said she had 'plenty of money saved.' But plenty of money minus $50, minus $25 and smaller sums will deplete any account if given time enough. And this had happened to Sheila's savings."

"Sheila," Tillie Samper said one morning, "You and I are going down town to-day! We're going to have permanent waves and we're going to buy new hats. There's nothing that sets a woman up like a new hat!"

Sheila eyed herself languidly in the mirror. "I suppose I look terribly," she said. "But I like to give my skin a rest when I'm not working." She rubbed one hand across her smooth pale cheek.

"A little pale, that's all," diagnosed the resolute Tillie. She rose. "We'll fix that soon enough. Come on."

"I don't believe I have any money."

"What?"

"I don't think I have enough money to go shopping."

"Oh, we don't need to spend a lot. All the stores are offering wonderful bargains. You can pick up the cutest things—"

"Not if anyone is looking!"

Sheila retorted. "I don't believe I have a single sou. Look in the book. It's in my handkerchief case."

The savings book, duly produced, told a sad story indeed. Not quite so sad as Sheila had forecast but sad enough. The balance was $19.40. Since the first of the month, barely three weeks ago, Sheila had made frequent withdrawals of sums ranging from $100 to $10.

"Sheila Shayne—you've been loaning money, haven't you?" Tillie said accusingly.

"I have. What else can you do? It's simpler than listening to sob stories." She sank wearily into a chair. "I didn't realize until this morning, though, that it was going so fast. Guess I'll have to go to work!"

"Say, in the mood you're in you couldn't get a job anywhere!"

"No, I suppose not."

"Then snap out of it, do you hear?" Tillie's voice rose wrathfully. "It was hard to be cross with Sheila, but it seemed to loyal little Tillie the 'one' chance."

"Listen! Get out and get yourself a job, and if I hear of you giving another cent to anyone—anyone—I'll—"

Tillie paused in a frantic search for a fitting threat. She floundered badly. "I'll annihilate you! I will!"

"Tillie, I guess I don't care what happens to me!"

"Darling!" Pressed against Tillie's shoulder, Sheila sobbed as if her heart would break.

"You love Jim, don't you, Tillie?" she said when she was able to speak. "Could you stand it to see him? Would you care what happened to you if you did?"

"I know," Tillie's voice broke sharply. "But, honey, it's hard to see, I know, but there are other things. There are other people—"

Half an hour later, smartly rowed, as serene as if nothing had occurred, the two girls sauntered forth to look for a job for Sheila. At Johnny Harrell's office Sheila faced the disgruntled agent with something akin to alarm.

"Going to listen to reason, are you?" he grunted. "Fine! Going to tell me you'll take a role I've just broken my neck to fill? Going to say you'll sign up now and take a good contract when I get it for you? Well, I haven't a thing for you. Not a thing! Hold on—wait a moment! Miss Rosenbaum, hand me that letter from Abbott, will you?"

Miss Rosenbaum, haughty, efficient and tailored, eyed Sheila as coolly as if she, too, had not shared Harrell's harassment in trying to find a substitute for Sheila.

"The position was filled this morning, Mr. Harrell. Grace Sawyer has the part."

Harrell frowned. "Well, then, that's out! Tell you what, Sheila, if you really want to go to work I'll have you in a show inside a week. What a night club job to fill in?"

"If she can use her own routine," interposed Tillie. "She isn't up to filling in for someone else."

Tillie was high-salaried and Harrell heard her with respect. "Well, Club Volens wants a single," he said. "You'll do fine. Toodle up there and I'll get Grady on the wire."

The two girls left. "He'll tell Grady he scoured the town to find you," Tillie giggled as they went down the dusty stairs to the street.

"That's all right with me," Sheila said wearily.

"She'll snap out of it when she hears the music," Tillie told herself. "She can't listen to music and not dance!"

The girls found Grady seated in the tiny office at the rear of the garish night club which, in its midday aspect looked forlorn and cheap. Tables were placed on tables. Cleaning men were listlessly swabbing the floor. An aproned waiter was gathering table appurtenances together on a tray.

"Yeah, Johnny phoned," Grady said, without taking his feet off the nearest chair. "I've got a spot that needs filling. Danced here last year, didn't you, with Rodney? If you are as good in a single you might work in all right."

"She's better in a single," the faithful Tillie thrust in and Grady raised a sarcastic eyebrow.

"Am I doing business with her or you, sister?" he wanted to know.

"I'm very good in a single," Sheila hastened to say in her own behalf.

Grady grinned. "O. K. You take a 15 minute spot in the show at 10.30 and another at 11.45. Get in touch with Mack. He's the leader and see if you can work out something big. Ever plug a song?"

"Have you one you want plugged?" asked Sheila cautiously.

Grady grinned again. "You and Mack be down here for a rehearsal at 4.30," he said. "Mack has a song I want to work in for Blind Timmy. It's a peach."

that was necessary.

"Timmy'll be tickled to death," Tillie chattered as she and Sheila set off together. Tillie had an engagement to lunch with her husband and Sheila decided not to join them. Left alone, she sought out Mack, the orchestra leader, by calling Joe Paris' office and asking for the phone number. Mack seemed to be glad she was to dance. But did she need a rehearsal, he asked. Couldn't she just take the number home and run through it?

"I can but I won't," said Sheila firmly. "Grady's orders."

Mack—billed as Merry MacIntyre and his Jazz Boys—seemed less than merry as he reluctantly agreed to arrive at the Club two hours earlier than usual.

"What are you going to dance?" Tillie asked later when she found Sheila in her room busy at her costume trunk.

The apathy of the morning had fled. Colour flamed in Sheila's cheeks. She sat on the floor, surrounded by floating chiffon, gay satins, feathered costumes, sequined boleros, flaming velvets.

"I thought I'd do that nightingale number," Sheila answered, absorbed. "Then as an encore—if I have one—that tap dance I did in 'Fine Feathers.' I like that. If Mack thinks something else would be better we can decide later."

WANG PREMIER CONFERENCE WITH CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

Shanghai, Mar. 26.
After much coming and going and a conflict of rumour and speculation, Wang Ching-wei has returned to Nanking to meet Chiang Kai-shek, who journeyed at the same time to the capital by air from Paoingfu. The two are holding an important conference, and Reuters' correspondent at Nanking says it is a foregone conclusion that Wang Ching-wei will agree to resume the Presidency of the Executive Yuan, which is equivalent to the Premiership.

This surprising development has left all observers floundering. When Wang Ching-wei returned from Europe it was assumed that he was to resume his post, which Mr. T. V. Soong, Finance Minister has been temporarily occupying, but shortly after reaching Nanking he returned here and it was given out that he flatly refused to resume, and that he had informed Chiang Kai-shek to that effect, in reply to a telegram from the latter. One explanation was that he feared that the possible reappointment of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek as Commander-in-Chief of the Army, Navy and Air Force, would eventually lead to the Generalissimo as absolute Dictator, a course to which Mr. Wang Ching-wei would naturally be strongly opposed.

The Nanking Meeting.

A stream of notable people were en route to Shanghai to persuade Mr. Wang Ching-wei to change his mind. Mr. Ku Meng-yu, Minister for Railways, arrived here on Friday, and Mr. Sun Fo was due to-day.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei admitted in an interview that arrangements had been made for a meeting between him and Chiang Kai-shek, though the location and the date he was not able to divulge.

Actually Chiang Kai-shek left Paoingfu by air at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning, landing at Kaifeng and going on to Nanking by train. Meanwhile Wang Ching-wei left Shanghai by train last night. He was first to arrive at Nanking, at 8 a.m., where he was met by Sun Fo, who cancelled his proposed trip to Shanghai.

Chiang Kai-shek arrived at 10 a.m. and was welcomed at Pukow railway station by General Chu Pei-teh, Chief of the General Staff, and Seng Chung-min, vice-Minister for Railways and personal representative of Mr. Wang Ching-wei.

The party immediately crossed the river and proceeded to the offices of the National Military Council which are located near the Military Officers' Academy.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei and Mr. Sun Fo had gone to the official residence in the Ministry for Railways where Wang Ching-wei conferred with all Government leaders here.

As soon as the news was received that General Chiang Kai-shek had arrived, Wang Ching-wei, Sun Fo and party went to the offices of the National Military Council to call on Chiang Kai-shek. The important political conference which is expected to result in Mr. Wang's resumption of the Premiership is proceeding. —Reuters' Special.

May Reconsider Resignation.

Shanghai, Mar. 25.
Mr. Wang Ching-wei indicated to Reuters to-day that if the Government could not find anyone to succeed him as President of the Executive Yuan, he would reconsider his resignation.

In an interview granted to a Reuters Representative after his discussions with Mr. Sun Fo, Mr. Wang Ching-wei said that his health did not permit him to resume his office. He stated that although he had recovered slightly from his recent illness, overwork would bring about a relapse. He added that since Mr. T. V. Soong had definitely declined to take up the post, the only way was for the Government to nominate someone else, but in case nobody could be found, he would reconsider his decision. —Reuters.

Chiang in Peking

Peking, Mar. 25.
Following a conference with General Ho Ying-ching, Chinese War Minister, lasting for several hours, General Chiang Kai-shek returned during the night to Paoingfu by train.

General Chiang's visit to Peking was most unexpected and created some excitement. Immediately after it became known that the Generalissimo was coming, high military officials here assembled at General Ho Ying-ching's headquarters and were later addressed by Gen. Chiang on his arrival.

Later, Gen. Chiang received General Ho Chu-kuo in order to enquire about the nature of the defence at the Luanho region where Gen. Ho Chu-kuo's army has only recently been transferred to

THE HELENA MAY INSTITUTE. OPENING OF NEW KOWLOON BRANCH PREMISES

Seventeen years have now elapsed since the Helena May Institute for Women was founded in the name of Lady May.

The institution has "quietly" grown. Originally its hostel contained eight bedrooms. At the present time there are twenty bedrooms, and this hostel is taxed to its utmost, applications for admission being in excess of the available accommodation. The hostel is not merely for permanent residents; the aim of the Council has been to reserve a room for visitors also.

The membership of the Institute, now numbers 540 and continues to show a steady increase. The Institute has many and varied attractions, being equipped with spacious social rooms and an excellent library. It provides a place of assembly for gatherings and societies of every kind, religious, literary, artistic and musical.

An organised programme during the winter session includes concerts, when opportunity is given to listen to talented musicians. Entertainments given for charities have frequently been granted the hospitality of the building.

In accordance with the constitution of the Institute a religious meeting is held weekly (every Friday at 10.30 a.m.) in connection with which the Institute has been greatly indebted to the clergy of the Colony. Attendance at these meetings is open to the public.

One of the main objects of the Institute is to provide a meeting place for women who are following professional and business careers in the Colony, and to enlist interest in its various activities.

A welcome is also given to all women visiting the Colony, including stewardesses who are cordially invited to use the Institute.

Special terms for missionaries are quoted, many of whom find the Institute of great use during their summer leave. Meals at reasonable rates are always obtainable.

In January, 1930, the Council embarked upon a new venture when they opened a branch in Kowloon. This was established at No. 3, Aimin Villas. An endeavour was made to provide in Kowloon facilities similar to those already furnished in Victoria. The experiment has been cramped for want of sufficient space and it has now been decided to move into larger premises. The Kowloon Branch will, on April 1, be opened in its new home, Nos. 168 and 170 Boundary Street (opposite La Salle College), where it will continue its enterprise. The excellent accommodation, a good library, and facilities for meals and light refreshments will, it is hoped, attract many new members to the Kowloon Branch.

An annual subscription of $12, payable to the Secretary, entitles members to the use of the Institute and the Kowloon Branch.

OBITUARY.

MRS. CHARLOTTE GRIMSHAW PASSES AWAY AT HOME

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. Grimshaw, will learn with deep regret of the death of Mrs. Grimshaw which took place at Liverpool on Saturday. News of her death reached the Colony yesterday by cable.

Mrs. Charlotte Grimshaw was the wife of Mr. T. Grimshaw who was employed at the Talkoo Sugar Refinery for a number of years until his retirement in 1920.

Mrs. Grimshaw was the mother of Mr. John Grimshaw, who is employed on one of the Blue Funnel liners.

Mrs. R. Shannon.

The death took place at the Kowloon Hospital yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Shannon, wife of Inspector R. Shannon, of the Hongkong Police Force.

The late Mrs. Shannon was a well known figure in police social circles, and counted a large circle of friends to whom her sad death following an operation will come as a shock.

She leaves behind her husband and three children, with whom the greatest sympathy will be felt. The funeral takes place this evening at the Happy Valley cemetery.

the Luanho region from the Shanghai area.

Later in the evening, Gen. Chiang went to the Western Hills and visited the Piyunssu Temple where the body of Dr. Sun Yat-sen lay for several years before its removal to Nanking for burial and which still contains many Sun Yat-sen relics. At the Piyunssu Temple, Chiang Kai-shek had a long conference with Ho Ying-ching. The nature of the discussion has not been made known. —Reuters.

SPARY V. SPARY ORDER AGAINST HUSBAND FOR MAINTENANCE

An order for maintenance was made against Mr. Austin Spary on Saturday when the summons brought before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court by his wife, Mrs. Ida Spary, was concluded. An application for leave to appeal against the decision was granted to the defence.

Mrs. D. B. Evans appeared for Mrs. Spary and Mr. Horace Lo was for the defendant. His Worship, in finding against the defendant, said that there was a great conflict of evidence, some of which was incredible. On the other hand he was not satisfied that the children had been in any way neglected or that neglect to maintain, formed any actual part of the case of the complainant against the defendant. His Worship was of the opinion there had been no neglect to maintain.

He did not consider that the defendant had been drunk as often or so seriously as the complainant made out. The main difficulty in the complainant's case to his Worship's mind was that there had been no evidence given on her behalf that her health had been in any way affected. Mr. Evans had, of course, pointed out that cruelty included conduct of such a character as to give rise to reasonable apprehension of danger to health.

Continuing, his Worship said he would have liked some medical evidence on the matter, but having in view the sequence of what appeared to be their occurring frequently this year he thought he must arrive at the conclusion that the complainant had reason to apprehend danger to life, limb or health if she continued to live with the defendant.

As regard the taking of the children from Kowloon to Stanley, the evidence of the defence was such as to raise grave doubts against the evidence of the complainant, but was not so decisive to prove that the complainant's witnesses had been telling lies. "I think, therefore," continued his Worship, "the complainant's case is to be preferred; but before I finally give my decision as to what is to be done I think I should like to see you both (Mr. Lo and Mr. Evans) in Chambers."

When the Court resumed shortly afterwards his Worship, addressing both parties, said: "My order at present is this: that complainant, be no longer bound to co-habit with defendant and defendant pay complainant, on account, $200 on or before April 1, 1933. Further orders to be considered and made within one week. The defendant will have to pay costs."

Mr. Lo: I think it will be convenient for me now to make an application, that is for leave to appeal against your Worship's decision. My application is based on the fact that your Worship's decision is contrary to the weight of evidence which has been adduced in this case. Your Worship has yourself commented on the difficulty which your Worship felt in arriving at the decision which has been given, and I don't think it is necessary for me to say very much more. I ask your Worship to allow me to appeal in this case.

His Worship: Appeal on law or on fact?
Mr. Lo: The appeal will be both on law and on fact. As regards the appeal on law the defendant is entitled as a matter of right to appeal and my application to your Worship, therefore, does not include that ground; but it is intended to appeal, your Worship, both on law and on fact.

His Worship: I am prepared to grant the application for appeal.

TENSION AT HANKOW JAPANESE PROTEST TO CHINESE COMMANDER

Hankow, March 25.

The atmosphere in the Wuhan cities still remains tense. Activities against Chinese dealing with Japanese firms continue unabated, and while the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, after a protest issued to garrison headquarters were able to deliver a certain amount of coal to the U.S. Gunboat here, in other directions activity by Chinese with Japanese business firms has practically ceased.

According to Chinese reports there are now eight Chinese companies of Japanese troops or in hiding and Japanese business in Hankow is being considerably hampered by the disappearances of the compradors.

The anti-Japanese Society at Ichang has warned dealers against any further dealings with Japanese firms. Any dealers disregarding this warning will be severely punished.

Threats issued in Ichang by the "Bloody Group" have resulted in the refusal on the part of the stevedores to load cargo on board Japanese ships.

It is becoming increasingly difficult for Japanese to obtain service of any kind.

It is rumored that the House Servants Union has been advised to comb out all Chinese servants working for Japanese families in the Japanese concession here. It is certain, however, that at the first sign of any house to house call by Japanese authorities would take action.

The situation is a serious one, in which it appears that the Chinese authorities are not prepared to take any action against the instigators of the mischief.

The Japanese have protested to the Chinese Garrison Commander, who is said to be doing his best in great difficulties, but though the Japanese have waited many days, nothing has happened in response to the protest. —Reuters.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations." (Ps. 33:11.)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous: for praise is comely for the upright..."

For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth. He loveth righteousness and judgment: the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord. By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. For he spake, and it stood fast. (Ps. 33:14-6.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas. The Scriptures also declare that God is Spirit. Therefore in Spirit all is harmony, and there can be no discord; all is life, and there is no death. Everything in God's universe expresses Him." (P. 331:11-22.)

FIGHT WITH TIGRESS SERGEANT DRAGGED FROM ELEPHANT

Sergeant Jack Adams, of the Calcutta Police, was severely injured by a wounded tigress while acting as a bodyguard to protect the Governor of Bengal (Sir John Anderson) from terrorists.

During a tiger hunt at Jalpaiguri, North Bengal, the wounded tigress approached the elephant on which the Governor was riding.

Sergt. Adams was one of a party who headed off the tigress and pursued her into the jungle. Suddenly, finding herself hemmed in, the tigress turned on her pursuers and, leaping upon the elephant on which Sergt. Adams was riding, dragged him to the ground.

In a flash a desperate life-and-death struggle was being fought. Adams fired six rapid shots and the tigress dropped exhausted, but not before she had dragged the sergeant several yards. While Adams crawled away his elephant, trumpeting loudly, charged and trampled the tigress to death.

The sergeant was rushed to hospital at Calcutta, where he lay in a critical condition.

COLONEL AS ALLEGED SHOPLIFTER

QUESTIONS IN THE COMMONS

The Secretary for Scotland was asked in Parliament by Mr. McGovern (Lab., Shettleston) what were the reasons for dropping the prosecution of Colonel Frederick Watkins Blair Atholl Lenzie who was arrested and charged with shoplifting on Dec. 22.

Mr. W. G. Normand (Solicitor-General for Scotland) replied that the Lord Advocate decided that no further proceedings should be taken in view of the previous medical history of this officer and his present condition. He was now under treatment in a home.

Mr. McGovern: Is it a fact that the Lord Advocate instructed the Edinburgh agents of this man to secure such a certificate and on its production he would order that no further steps should be taken; and is this man at the moment Paymaster in the Regular Army in the Scottish Command in Edinburgh?

Mr. Normand: The only connection the Lord Advocate had with the doctor was that the doctor is the usual one employed by the Crown to inquire into cases where the mental condition of accused persons is in question.

Mr. McGovern asked if a Court should not have heard the evidence. Mr. Normand: The course taken was perfectly normal. In minor cases of this kind it is within the jurisdiction of the prosecutor to have an investigation made for himself and to take what action he thinks proper.

Mr. McGovern next asked the reason for the failure to proceed with the prosecution of Mrs. Mary McBethon Semple, of Calderwood-road, Newlands, Glasgow, who was charged with shoplifting on Dec. 8, and whether she had been charged on two previous occasions.

Mr. Normand replied that it was not a fact that the prosecution did not proceed. The case was brought before the Stipendiary at Glasgow, but in view of the medical evidence upon the woman's mental state he found her not guilty. She was convicted in 1914, when she was put on probation, and in 1924 she was discharged.

Mr. Maxton (Lab., Bridgeton): Are we to advise our constituents that under the present judicial regime in Scotland medical certificates will always be taken as being an excuse for theft?

No answer was given.

$3,800,000 HOME OF THE L.C.C.

COMPLETE AFTER 30 YEARS

A great London building, first contemplated nearly 30 years ago, has been declared complete at last.

The unfinished building had long been familiar to Londoners. It is the County Hall, beside the river at the southern end of Westminster Bridge, on a site once the bed of the Thames.

Recently in the presence of the Lord Mayor of London, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and a big gathering in the new domed conference hall, with its striking pillars of dull blue scagliola, the Chairman of the London County Council (Mr. Angus N. Scott) formally declared the new northern section open.

When the King opened the first three blocks of the building in 1922, he used the phrase: "An authority manly housed may be meanly esteemed." In its magnificent hall by the river—where long ago Roman galleys rowed over the site—the L. C. C. has a "house" worthy of its dignity and importance.

As far back as 1906 the Council obtained powers to acquire the site at a cost of approximately $600,000. Six years later the King laid the foundation-stone of the new building, which Mr. Ralph Knott had designed, and in 1922 he opened the first three blocks.

All-British The northern section remained a dream; it was not until 1928 that the L. C. C., spurred on by the large increase of its staff and the possibility of further increases, decided to complete the building. The late Mr. Knott's partner, Mr. E. Stone, Collins, was appointed architect for the extension.

The new wing, "dignified and harmonious" has worthily crowned the work. Quarries in Derbyshire, Cornwall, Yorkshire and Dorset, and forests in British Columbia, Burma and the Andaman Isles have contributed some of the all-British materials.

The entire Hall has cost $3,800,000, a sum, owing to the advance in prices, considerably above the pre-war estimate. The new northern section, which cost $374,000, includes a conference hall, new quarters for the Council's education library—with space for 100,000 books—and about 300 rooms.

A JEST THAT MISFIRED ENLARGING BRITISH EMPIRE

Argentina is angry!

And all over a chance remark, probably made in a spirit of jest, that she should join the British Empire.

The culprit is Sir Arthur Samuel, a former Minister for Overseas Trade, and at one time Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

It appears that recently he gave an interview apropos the visit of the Argentine Mission to London, for publication in South America.

Buenos Ayres reports this reaction: Sir Arthur Samuel's recent suggestion that Argentina "should become a fully-fledged member of the British Empire" has provoked a storm of indignation here.

La Prensa, characterises the suggestion as "absurd" and "mortifying," while the Herald, voicing Anglo-Argentine opinion, declares that Sir Arthur's suggestion is "clownish" and "constitutes the supreme gaffe of our time."

The reported interview also states that Sir Arthur Samuel was supported by Mr. Josiah Wedgwood, who added that he thought Denmark should also join the Empire.

A News-Chronicle representative saw Sir Arthur Samuel, and asked: "Were you joking when you made the invitation?"

Sir Arthur merely laughed. "Do you think that the Argentine should become part of the British Empire?"

"The whole world should become part of the British Empire," declared Sir Arthur emphatically.

CDR. LOCKER-LAMPSON'S TRIBUTE

Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, who spoke at a meeting of the Kipling Society at Rubens Hotel, S.W., suggested that a Kipling dictionary should be prepared. It would contain not merely the words he had invented but the technical terms which he had harnessed to a literary vehicle for the first time.

Kipling, he said, impounded and improved professional terms, and what some considered a vulgar and mechanical contrivance became a magical instrument in his hands.

Kipling could have easily satisfied specious present-day needs and the modern passion for indelicate indiscretion, added Commander Locker-Lampson. He might have fed a debilitated public taste with novels which were naughty and memoirs which were septic with sex.

"The best of Kipling, I believe, will outlast the best of any contemporary," he concluded, "and if we were alive a thousand years hence, when England would perhaps no longer be an island, India might have gone, every Viceroy and ruler forgotten, and even Gandhi might be a ghost, 'Mandalay' would be still sung and loved."

"Plenty, thanks." "Leave the suit case and I'll have Mattie press the things. You can telephone just what you want and I'll send them down by a messenger."

At 10 that morning Sheila had not cared whether she lived or died, whether or not she ever danced again. At four, hurrying down town for the rehearsal, she thought of nothing but the coming performance. (To be continued.)

LABOUR STANDARD PROBLEMS

The conference on unemployment insurance organised by the British League of Nations Union, and held recently at the London School of Economics, threw an interesting sidelight upon the difficulties facing the League of Nations in its efforts to get uniform standards and methods applied in different parts of a world that has become for so many purposes a physical unity. A representative of the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company pointed out that in China not only is there no form of unemployment insurance, at any rate as it is understood in the West, but also no demand for its institution. Under the capitalist system as it has developed in Europe, unemployment, occasional and intermittent in normal times, abnormal at times of crisis such as the present, is regarded as a necessary incident of industry; and since it comes upon the worker through no fault of his own, the moral sense of the community has generally of recent years at least required Governments to organise provision in some form or other against it. In China and in that other vast sub-continent of India, similar development has not taken place. The great masses of the population still follow agricultural pursuits and when a member of the family is unable for any reason to earn his own living, he relies for support upon his relatives. He belongs to an ancient civilisation, of which the family rather than the individual is the focal unit. The machine age which has revolutionised European Society has as yet hardly touched the life of Asia. The comparative few who have drifted to the towns dislike committing themselves to "industry." They prefer to work as casual labourers rather than to enter into any form of binding contract. The bonds of the family system may have begun to weaken, but the factory-worker has not yet learned to regard himself as a member of an industrial proletariat, dependent for his rights and advantages as an individual upon any community sense or any State-controlled machinery. The conclusion to which one seems driven is that while the general purpose of the League's International Labour Organisation is sound, as it is expressed, for instance, in Article 23 of the League's Covenant, viz: "to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labour for men, women and children . . . in all countries" the methods by which this goal is approached cannot be of a cast-iron uniformity. Of course this has been largely recognised already. In the Washington Hours Convention, the first effort made by the I.L.O. to obtain a universal eight hours day and 48 hours week for workers, special provisions were expressly made for the application of the Convention in a modified form to Japan and India, while other Asiatic countries, such as China, Siam and Persia were entirely excluded pending further consideration. The point that seems worth making is that while in no wise depreciating the excellent work done by the International Labour Organisation it should be more widely recognised that it has perhaps inevitably concentrated upon conditions as they exist in countries whose life has been revolutionised by the introduction of the machine. The conditions of labour for the other, larger, half of the world's population also need the most careful and understanding consideration, with a view to the raising of standards of living among them on practicable and acceptable lines.

Red Noses

Human beings have always been rather too good at jumping to conclusions, and at being deceived by appearances. That is why the red nose has been so often misunderstood. It has been left to an expert to go to the root of the matter. He has investigated the causes of this facial phenomenon, and has found that it is a popular illusion that the red nose is generally an indication of what he calls "long-continued alcoholic imbibitions." The vast majority of the red-nosed ones are total abstainers, even in the United States. Some sort of apology, therefore, seems to be called for from music-hall comedians and others, who have long made sport of the roscate nose, from which, by the way, they themselves have not always been immune. Red noses have their origin in a multitude of causes, all more or less lawful, natural, and honourable. In view of the expert's findings, the only safe thing to do, when confronted with a specimen of quite arresting redness, is to conclude at once, and without any qualification whatsoever, that its owner is a total abstainer. The weather, too, has a distinct influence on the temperature and hue of the nose. January produces more red noses than one might care to count, unless of a pertinaciously statistical turn of mind. By one of Nature's little jokes, the red nose also becomes embarrassingly common in the height of summer not less than in the depth of winter. From this it would appear that the nose is one of her safety valves, whereby she contrives to keep the human organism in good working order despite great and sudden changes of temperature. Perhaps, under a more just system of civilisation than that which exists at present, the red nose will be recognised as a pointer to the existence of prodigious reserves of energy, ability, and adaptability in its fortunate owner. Then it will be possible for the most temperate of us to glow nasally as much and as often as we please, without a sense of guilt or shame. As it is, the person with a red nose is at a distinct and wholly unfair disadvantage. No one will take him quite seriously. He is never promoted over the heads of his seniors, nor even over the heads of his juniors. Everyone expects him to crack up sooner or later, without the slightest warning, or to abscond with the petty cash, or to commit some other enormity. Women have abolished the red nose, at least to outward seeming. Their powder puffs have saved them from its ignominy. But the red-nosed man, scorning such aids, is defenceless and without hope. He will not even paint his cheeks to match. Though this may indicate a large element of stubbornness in his nature, he is, on the whole, more to be pitied than blamed, more sinned against than sinning.

FAMOUS PRAYERS

By E. L. ALLEN

Of course, like everything else, prayer has had its history and it has gone through great changes. It began with such things as the householder's petition for long life, good harvests, and male children or the witch-doctor's charm to bring rain, or the ritual dance of the young men of the tribe before they set out on the war-trail. But in process of time it has learned selfishness, and at least in its best exponents it has become the pure, disinterested longing of the human heart after what is highest and best. It began with the business-like request for ten mares, a stallion, and a camel which actually occurs along with much of a higher order in the sacred books of the old Persian religion, and it has reached the cry of the Indian mystic, "From the unreal lead me to the real, from the darkness lead me to the light."

One of the earliest prayers in Western literature is to be found in Homer. The hero Patroclus lies dead but the Greeks stand their ground and stubbornly contest with the Trojans the possession of his corpse. In the midst of the struggle, all at once the sky is overcast and darkness adds to the confusion of the combat. Ajax lifts his eyes to heaven: "Father Zeus," he cries, "send light and save us. Clear the sky and grant sight to our eyes, and even if it is Thy will that we should perish, at least let us perish in the light." That is a prayer that we might do well to take up and use for ourselves to-day.

Then there is another Greek prayer which is worth knowing. It is from Plato, who records it as a prayer of Socrates. Socrates and Phaedrus are sitting under the shade of a plane-tree by the river's brink, and when they have finished their conversation it is suggested that prayer would be fitting in such a scene before they leave it. So Socrates prays as follows: "Beloved Pan, and all ye other gods who abide here, grant me to be beautiful in the inner man, and all I have of outer things to be at peace with those within. May I count the wise man only rich. And may my store of gold be such as none but the good can bear." What does he mean by the last sentence? He will not despise prosperity, he knows it may be a helper to the good life, and poverty is not of itself a good. But he asks that only such a measure of prosperity shall come his way as shall not imperil his character. Finally, there is a prayer from which I know none more wonderful. Like the other two I have given, it is not a Christian prayer. We have it from a woman-mystic who lived in Persia in the eighth century of our era. It speaks the language of a human love that has broken through all those boundary-walls we tend to erect around the love of God, lest it should come too freely to our

MACHINE COWARDS

By Norman Tiplast

In an age when even the children are born mechanically minded, when we have achieved a greater control of power than the world has ever known, people are becoming afraid of the machine that the heroism and ingenuity and labour of generations has constructed.

The whisper is going "round": "Watch this machine! It is dangerous! It takes away men's jobs! It means bread lines and unemployment queues. The machine is an evil thing, a thing of terror by night and pestilence by day." Before the days of the machine, men were happy and content. The ploughman plodded homeward his weary way, secure in the knowledge that his labour was not in vain and that his living was secure. The craftsman fashioned his wares, knowing that for good craftsmen there was always good living to be had.

Men were free—they were individual; to-day they are bound to the machine and standardised. The old slave of the lamp was a fairy-tale for children to laugh at; the new slave of the moving belt, the travelling crane, the dynamo, is a tragedy that makes men weep.

"The machine has made life big and vast, and in making it so it has left no room for the little things. Let us break the machine, since it has wrought on us all this evil!" Now, this is a cowardly attitude; behind it is a slave psychology, the idea that work is good for its own sake; that long hours, arduous toil, scanty earnings, a low standard of life, in some way or other are good for people. So, rather than use our brain to master the machine with its possibilities of an ever-expanding life for all peoples, it is better to destroy the machine, and forget ten thousand years of progress, to go back because we are too cowardly to go forward.

We know how to harness power through the petrol engine and the electric current to produce the things we need. We know how to transport things when we have made them to people who need them at the ends of the earth. We know how to make not only the necessities of life for the whole world but many of the luxuries as well, and knowing these things, we are afraid.

Why? The brain that devised the machine can surely control the machine of its devising. Not in fear of the thing man has created but in the mastery of it lies the only way to that saner society which our children "will enter in the years that are coming."

The Very Idea!

"I WILL."

By Mr. Kelly, Misogynist.

ARE YOU MARRIED?

Why not?

ARE WE MARRIED?

Why bring that up?

Most men make at least one fatal mistake in the course of their lives. Some, of course, get married twice, and remain for years as an indictment against the S.P.C.A.

To-day, ladies and gentlemen, we propose to discourse learnedly on the subject of marriage and Man's inhumanity to Man (with apologies to a poet named Buttriss).

It's years since we took the plunge but we've never been able to get our head above water since. A fellow journalist and rival—in short, no friend of ours—reported the ceremony. We will hide nothing. This is what he wrote:—

WEDDING BILLS.

The 'I' will be Knocked Out of Kelly Now.

MARRIED AT LAST

The bitter sobbing of the bride's mother and the howling of the confectioner who had supplied the cake on credit mingled with wheezing of the organ yesterday afternoon as Edward Kelly took young, unsophisticated, Molly Muldoon as his bride.

The bridegroom, wearing the same suit as on the occasion of his first wedding was supported (with difficulty) by Mr. P. Watkins.

The bride entered the church in the arms of a boy friend who subsequently gave her away, refusing to accept payment. Kelly wouldn't have paid in any case though he might have signed a chit through force of habit.

The parson said "Edward, will you take this girl, Molly to be your wedded wife, etc. etc."

The groom caused a riot by absent-mindedly replying "Don't mind if I do."

Hundreds of the happy couple's friends gathered at the reception and sang "No wonder She's a blushing bride" in raucous voices. Slowly the bridegroom drank himself into a state of hopeless intoxication—and may we say, in passing, that on Page 6 appears reference to a summons by Gande Price and Co for goods supplied to E. Kelly.

There was lots more in the report but the Editor says the Telegraph is a respectable paper and we mustn't re-print such things.

And so it appears that the full and complete story of our downfall cannot be told.

But if we can't tell our story, we can and will give some advice to the Young People of To-day.

GET MARRIED! It will serve you darn well right.

THE SAFEST HAT.

The bowler hat, as we were saying, or attempting to say, has fallen on evil days, but when its manifold virtues are more widely appreciated, it will be so much in demand that there will not be nearly enough bowlers to go round.

After reading a correspondence in the newspapers, we have come to the conclusion that there are few of the dangers of life against which the bowler does not afford adequate protection.

Whether one falls on one's head, or something falls upon it, the bowler saves the situation, and, incidentally, a valuable life.

It is a buffer as well as a crash helmet, for there is at least one case on record of a pedestrian who, finding himself lying on the road at the mercy of the passing traffic, pointed his bowler-covered head at an approaching baby car, and routed it.

DANGERS OF LIFE.

Many who follow dangerous callings wear the bowler, not so much for elegance but as a shield against such mischances as the dropping of a brick or a hammer upon their heads. And as we all follow dangerous callings in these days, it seems to me that we should all wear bowlers.

Their more mercenary owners might exploit the publicity possibilities of these hats by letting them out for advertisements of pills, powders, potions, or puddings. There seems to be nothing sacred from these publicity bugs. They'd snap up the spaces.

"You see, we were secretly divorced before anyone learned of our secret marriage."

SESSIONS

Sui Yau-cheung pleaded "Not Guilty" at the Criminal Sessions this morning, before Mr. Justice Wood, acting Chief Justice, when he appeared in answer to two charges of being in possession of implements of forgery for the purpose of making spurious Siamese banknotes.

The jury comprised Messrs. J. A. Shaw (foreman), W. R. Wilkinson, E. A. Dos Remedios, N. Macarthur, R. Morrison, S. Edgar and I. L. Goldenberg.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, for the Crown said the articles for the possession of which the accused was charged were found on February 2nd, when the police visited a house in Victoria. When the police entered, they found the accused in bed and arrested him. On a table near the window of the rear cubicle, in which he was sleeping they found a number of articles used in the manufacture of banknotes and a one-tical Siamese note. In the left-hand drawer they found one of the glass plates the subject of one of the counts, while in a suitcase under accused's bed was found the second glass plate. On each of the plates were marks similar to those on Siamese banknotes of one-tical and twenty-tical value.

The rest of the premises was then searched and further articles were found, including glass and copper plates. It would be proved in evidence that accused, with a man named Li, had shared the cubicle for some six weeks prior to the visit of the police. When accused was charged at the Central Police Station, he said he asked Li to make him a photograph for the purpose of a trade mark, and when he was given that photograph he found it contained the whole design of a tical banknote. Accused said he told Li it was against the law to use such a photograph, and Li then made him a photograph of a note with the design of the centre with a blank on the four sides. When Li went away he left both plates on the premises.

On another floor, added Mr. Fraser, the police found a blue print which corresponded in detail to the glass plate of the one-tical note.

His Lordship asked if any evidence would be called to show that the notes were definitely Siamese notes, to which Mr. Fraser replied that he had not thought that necessary. "The Siamese Consul was approached," he added, "but he says he has never seen a Siamese note."

The case is proceeding.

THE CAUSE

When two Chinese women were charged with disorderly behaviour at West Point, before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court today, it was stated that they were watched by a crowd of between 300 and 400 children. They were separated with difficulty by a policeman, and resumed the brawl after being brought into the station charge-room. It was impossible, said the prosecuting Police Officer, for him to get a word in sideways, and what they were quarrelling about still remained a mystery.

Questioned in Court, one of the women denied any relationship with the other, but the other said she was her sister-in-law. The trouble appeared to be a domestic one, and his Worship advised them to take it to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

Both women were bound over.

FRIDAY

His Excellency the Governor of Macao, Lieut.-Col. Miranda, will arrive in Hongkong at 11.30 a.m. on Friday next by the s.s. Sui An to pay an official visit to His Excellency Sir William Peel.

At the official landing, Lieut.-Col. Miranda will be met by the Governor of Hongkong and escorted to Government House.

The Governor of Macao will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Miranda. Madame Miranda has been compelled to cancel the visit owing to ill-health.

A dinner party and reception will be held at Government House at night in honour of the distinguished visitor.

Lieut.-Col. Miranda and Miss Miranda will leave for Canton the following evening.

PICKPOCKETS ON WHARFRAZOR BLADE TRICK
EXPLOITED

A number of Canton passengers on the Yuet On Wharf last night were the victims of pickpockets and as a result of a report to the Police an arrest was made.

Appearing before Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning the man was charged with larceny of $10 in Canton currency from the person of an unknown man; possession of a razor blade described as an instrument fit for an unlawful purpose and preventing seizure by throwing away goods which had been unlawfully obtained.

Inspector A. E. Carey said three passengers for Canton reported to wharf constables that they had their pockets cut and picked. A stricter search was then made by the police. When a constable went to search defendant, he threw something into the harbour. On his person were a roll of Chinese coins and the razor blade.

The officer remarked that the three victims were now destitute but there was no evidence to prove the defendant had robbed them. It was not known from whom the $10 had been stolen but as it was in a roll it was presumed to have been taken from one man.

Sentencing the defendant to nine months' hard labour, his Worship ordered that the money found on the defendant be divided among the three victims.

MORE BICYCLE
WEEK-END

Accidents involving push bicycles are becoming more prevalent. During the week-end, two further mishaps were reported to the police, one occurring in the Mongkok district and the other on the Ma Tau Kok Road, Kowloon City.

Chan Luk, reported that while riding a bicycle in Nathan Road, he collided with a ricksha, when turning into Nelson Street, near the Mongkok Fire Station. The ricksha's passenger, a Chinese, was hurled to the ground, receiving slight abrasions to the left elbow.

In a second report to the Traffic Department, Mak Mau, driver of a Sanitary Department motor-lorry, said he was proceeding along Ma Tau Kok Road and when near the Rope Factory a man riding a push bicycle collided with the lorry. The youth received slight injuries to his face, but refused to be sent to hospital for treatment.

MIST OR RAIN

Pressure has increased quickly over China, a strong anticyclone being centred to the north of the Lower Langkate Valley. The depression over Tongking has filled up and another depression is indicated over the Loochoos. Fresh monsoon will prevail over the whole of China Coast and the Northern China Sea. Local forecast:—North and N.E. winds, fresh; cloudy with mist or light rain.

A parcel containing two books and some private papers, bearing the characters Mau Sang Tong, has been picked up near the railway bridge at Taiipo and taken to the Taiipo Police Station, where it awaits a claimant. The police also found a white metal watch in Fleming Road, Wanchai. The owner may have it on application to the Wanchai Police Station.

"WHAT YOUTH
US IS HERE"

A parent who has asked his boy at Cambridge to give his opinion on the articles recently printed, entitled "What Youth Thinks," has permitted the following extracts from his son's reply:

"I am very sorry that I have taken so long to answer your letter. I have been trying to hear from people what they thought of the articles. This is more difficult than it sounds, for people very rarely think when they read a newspaper article at all, even if it is written about them.

"Most of the people whom I found said: 'Not bad, quite clever, but a good deal more interesting to the general public than to us.' Which is so helpful. They do not say, however, that the writer is inaccurate, because Cambridge is large enough to include every kind of point of view. It is almost impossible to say what youth thinks; it is like saying what 'women' think or feel; there are so many women.

"You can meet every type here; people who are going to arrive by work and/or brains (usually North-country; often medical students); people who don't think but trust that it will come all right in the end, and who, I suppose, will make themselves content by limiting their desires; people who are disdainful and who, I think, must have sufficient money to let them take this attitude; people who live entirely for Cambridge and what goes on here, interesting themselves in various things here, but not thinking about the future, largely because this is unpleasant. One can go on indefinitely with different types of people.

Optimism, Progress

"On the whole, I think the correspondent has done rather well. There is a lack of feeling about outside events which is remarkable; people have no desire to reform the world, and perhaps feel that it would go equally badly whether they put their ideas into practice or not. The curious thing is, that in arguing, I seem to find everywhere an optimism, a tendency to believe in progress which, though theoretical, contrasts rather strikingly with the general no-illusion attitude. This is, perhaps, slightly explained by the fact that youth does not think of itself as particularly young; the 'threshold of life' business is an idea which comes from older people; all that concerns us is here, as it were, and so larger and future things are rather theoretical.

"This is all rather badly expressed, and I do not know why I am flooding you with my muddled ideas. The point of my mind really is that youth is too large and too diverse a thing to be talked about as a whole with accuracy, but I think the correspondent has not done it badly. 'This does not come from an ignorance that the world needs setting right; it comes rather from the double importance and preponderance of the present (youth, and also reaction to a probably dark future), and perhaps from an ignorance of what a right world would be. I wonder if you see what I mean. If you don't, don't bother; these are only my own impressions, just as liable to be wrong as any one else's."

Dr. E. L. Allen will deliver a lecture on "Personal Religion" to the University Christian Association today, at 8 p.m., in the Union Assembly Room at the University.

Father G. Byrne, S. J. will give his Presidential Address on "The Problems of Education in Hongkong" to the University Education Society on Wednesday, March 29, at 8 p.m., in the Union Assembly Room.

On a charge of larceny of a spanner from Mr. S.C.P. Amery's motor car in Statue Square yesterday a Chinese who appeared before Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning was sentenced to three months' hard labour and two years' police supervision. The defendant, in 1930, was given one year's hard labour and twenty-four strokes, of the birch for larceny from the person.

A special Sunday School Flower service was held at the Union Church, Kowloon, yesterday morning at which the Rev. E. L. Allen officiated and the speaker was Mrs. Thomas, of the Diocesan Girls' School. Each child brought flowers which were heaped on the Communion table and in the afternoon distributed by the Rev. Mr. Allen and Mr. A. W. Ingram to various charitable institutions in the Colony. The choir rendered the anthem "Teach me Thy Way, O Lord."

STUDENT'S DEATH
RIDDLESON OF PREMIER WHO SHOT HIMSELF

The dramatic suicide of a Prime Minister of Iraq is recalled by the discovery of his student son lying dead, apparently poisoned, in his flat at Moseley, Birmingham.

The student's name is Ali Sadun, and his father, the late Sir Abdul Mushin, shot himself before the eyes of his family at Bagdad in 1929, leaving a letter for Ali, who had just entered Birmingham University, to specialise in oil engineering.

By the side of Ali Sadun was an empty bottle and a note.

Friends of the young student are mystified as to his death, for he apparently had plenty of money and always seemed bright and cheerful, although of late he had been worrying over his examinations.

A close friend of the dead man said "Only a few days ago Ali was telling me how he longed to be back in Bagdad, in the fine old house in which he and his mother lived."

"Apparently he had dozens of servants, or rather slaves, for he explained that he inherited them. He told me that his old butler was nearly 90 and had been in service with his grandfather."

"He had a number of friends in Birmingham, both men and women, and was always lavish with his money. He used to prepare his own Eastern dishes in his flat."

A sensation was caused in Bagdad by the suicide of Sir Abdul Mushin, who, just before his death, wrote a poignant note to Ali explaining why he took his own life. "I ask you to forgive me," he wrote.

"I have no further desire for this life, from which I have known neither honour nor pleasure."

"The nation is pressing for service, but the British do not agree. I am without help."

"The Iraqis are weak. They believe me a traitor to my country, a servant of the British—what a calamity!"

"I have endured all kinds of insults and taunts as the reward of my efforts to secure happiness for my country, in which my forefathers have lived with honour and dignity."

3d. A MILE AIR
TRAVELGROWING HOLIDAY SERVICES

A new boom in British aviation enterprise is anticipated this year, which will include extensions of:

Air ferries.
Holiday trips.
Commercial air lines.
Municipal aerodromes.

All over the country private concerns are building up "feeder" lines to the main air lines.

The Midlands and the North of England are to be connected up with Croydon, while there will be an extension of the holiday expresses by air initiated on the Romford-Claughton route.

At present 100 cities on the Continent are regularly scheduled by the Imperial Airways lines accessible from Croydon, and the inland "feeder" lines which are planned here will shortly put us on almost as good a basis as Germany, where there is an intensive net work of flying services.

EXTENDED FERRY SERVICE.
Three main factors are creating the new situation:

Decreasing running costs.
Rapid acceleration of technical progress.

A belief that trade will improve. So much business has been done through the ferries, such as Portsmouth to the Isle of Wight, the Severn and Humber ferries, during the last few months that the services are to be extended.

Manchester business men can now travel to the Continent and back in a day, and many trade representatives are making aeroplanes their regular means of transport.

A new type of machine is making headway for inland transport, which costs barely 3d. per mile per passenger, and holiday air trips this season are likely to break all records.

Sentence of six months' hard labour was imposed by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning on a Chinese who had in his possession 21 counterfeit Hongkong ten-cent coins. The defendant, it was alleged, whilst purchasing a packet of cigarettes at the Chinese recreation ground in Hollywood Road.

At the Criminal Sessions this morning before Mr. Justice Wood, acting Chief Justice, the case against Kwok Ping for breach of a deportation order was further adjourned until the April Criminal Sessions.

The s.s. On Lee, which went aground near Kowloon, was pulled off by H.M.S. Cicada and returned to Hongkong yesterday.

BORDERERS' THREE VICTORIES DURING WEEK END

FINE FIELDING

FINCHER MAKES TWO GREAT CATCHES AGAINST I.R.C.

INDIANS THWARTED: K.C.C. SECOND DIVISION RUNNERS-UP

HEARTS ceased to flutter at the University after Saturday afternoon when it became known that the Kowloon Cricket Club had beaten the Indian Recreation Club in the last cricket league match of the season, and that the Varsity had, as a result, won the premier championship.

It was a creditable, but not altogether unexpected achievement on the part of the Peninsula players. Their consistency throughout the season has ranked them as about the finest all-round team in the league this year, and it was this balance which did so much to shatter the hopes of the Indians.

The K.C.C. total of 125 did not, in cold figures appear a particularly formidable score, but when it received the support of such excellent bowling and extremely efficient fielding on the part of the homesters, one could appreciate, and sympathise with the task before the Indians.

FINCHER'S CATCHES.

Burnett, Goodwin, Smith and McInnes shared the bowling honours for the K.C.C., whilst E.C. Fincher completed a capital afternoon's work by dismissing A.H. Madar and A.K. Minu with dazzling catches in the slips. Madar he caught high up off Burnett, whilst Minu was sent back with a cleverly anticipated catch near the ground.

Incidentally the Fincher brothers proved conclusively that Pereira could be hit, and in putting on 69 runs rather spoilt his analysis. None the less the fast bowler bagged five victims at a cost of nine runs each.

Benwell's wicket-keeping was not too impressive, and Mr. Extras proved chief contributor to the I.R.C. total. They aggregated 26, and of these 24 were byes, and one a leg bye.

Ismail's keeping was praiseworthy, the Indian smartly stumping Teddy Fincher and Smith off Minu.

INDIANS' BLACK DAY.

Thanks to the bowling of Tucker and Wells, who between them sent back the I.R.C. second string for 66 runs—exactly 50 runs less than the R.E. total—the Kowloon Cricket Club reserves enjoy the distinction of being runners-up in the second division.

With the first five wickets falling for nine runs, the Sookunpoo team had very little hopes of passing the soldiers' 116, but F.M. Arculli and A.A. Rummah faced the attack with some amount of confidence and added 26 for the eighth wicket. The leading batting and bowling performances in league and friendly games follow.

ENTER BOTH SHIELD FINALS WITH S. CHINA AND NAVY

Third Division Championship Now Practically Decided

SATURDAY'S CAUSE AND EFFECT

SUCCESS comes easily to the Borderers these days. The week-end saw them enter two Shield finals and make almost certain of the third division championship.

THEIR third string now need only four points from their remaining four matches to earn the third division trophy, and this means that the Lincolns, their closest rivals must obtain the maximum points from their last five games.

THE Shield programme on Saturday produced some keen football. More decisive tackling and a better idea of the whereabouts of the goal helped the Borderers to negotiate their semi-final with the Lincolns.

SOUTH China's ultra-clever footwork nearly reacted on the performers whose finishing was ultra-dismal. Nevertheless they managed to snap the one goal necessary to qualify for the final.

SHIELD MATCHES DESCRIBED

PURPOSELESS PLAY

(By "VERITAS").

FOR a team which had twice beaten the league leaders within three weeks, the Lincolns played very poor football against the Borderers in the senior shield semi-final on Saturday, and the result, which finally determined itself as three-nil in favour of the 24th, was never in doubt.

The Borderers played thrustful, neck-or-nothing football, refusing to be put off by the conditions, which, with a severe cross wind, were made none the less, and scored their goals by making use of opportunities, rather than by any pronounced superiority of forwards over defence.

The Lincolns were slow, wild in their passing and without a forward capable of turning to good account the many chances offered. The Borderers were distinctly the better of two not very good teams, and were by no means flattered by the score.

THE PLAYERS.

Mullane was outstanding in the 24th defence, and

Podmore, by the ground he covered and the number of times he had possession of the ball earned the same distinction among the halves.

Morgan, after a bright display in the first half, appeared to lose control of Lieut. Loquard, who was the only source of danger to the Borderers rearguard.

Jones schemed well, whilst Harris was a clever winger. Fourty led the line with gusto, but not too successfully, being slow in snapping up squarerepasses.

Beyond Lieut. Loquard, on the left wing, who, unsupported as he was played an excellent lone game, none of the Lincolns emerged from the match with any great credit.

The defence as a whole worked hard; they had to. But Heath's goal was far from confident, and an injury to the rearguard more penetrable.

Cork was occasionally conspicuous, but his game was one of moods and inconsistencies, whilst up forward there was far too much lying back on the part of Ridley and Harding to cause the attack to become effective. In a quiet unobtrusive manner, Baldry played a good game, but he was closely watched by Morrison and often receiving had passes, had his work rendered doubly difficult.

Davis scored first for the Borderers and Underwood added the second before the opening half had expired, following a dazzling run from the half way line.

Fourty netted the third in the closing stages, following a period of scrappy midfield exchanges.

TIT BITS OF WEEK END PROGRAMME

IT was hardly a representative South China team which engaged a strong Combined Services XI in a Charity match on the Club enclosure yesterday. The services were very definite in winning, scoring thrice without reply.

BALDRY, ex-Interporter, and regular duty man on the left wing for the Lincolns senior team, had a field day, accomplishing the "hat-trick"—all three goals being beauties.

YESTERDAY, in fact, provided two other individual goal-scoring achievements. Matthias three times piercing the Athletic goal on behalf of the Army Juniors, and Lister helping himself to the same quota playing for the Engineers against Tai Koo.

JUDGED by his performance, yesterday, Shirras learnt something about Wong Mee-shun on Saturday. He more than held his own in the many duels with the Chinese centre-forward, and was, in fact, the shining light of the game.

MULLANE seems to be getting better and better. Even without his trustworthy colleague, Morrison, he put up a great show on Sunday. Ash too offered excellent support, and with Heath's regained form, the services defence was impregnable.

THE absence of so many of the Chinese "stars" robbed the game of much of its interest, but the play of the Services was always delightful to watch, and the several charity matches which have been played this season, as well as the representative games against Shanghai and the Lai Wah Cup encounters, have conclusively demonstrated that the Navy and Army can turn out a very powerful side indeed.

LEAGUE games produced the expected results, the only possible exception being the failure of the R.A.S.C., occupying second position in the third division, against the Air Force. I anticipated the "Biffers" grabbing a point, but they had to have both, and thus ruin entirely, the Corps challenge to the Borderers.

THE Lincolns won with ease against St. Joseph's, but it did not do them a lot of good, as the 24th also added points from their tie with the Athletic yesterday, and they will now have to make more than one slip to be deprived of the championship.

THE Navy and Borderers qualified for the Junior Shield, thus fulfilling general expectations. Both showed themselves to be sound working combinations, and the final is bound to produce a fine struggle.

PRETTY BUT NOT EFFECTIVE

S. CHINA WITHOUT MARKSMEN

IF the theory that clever and scientific football will, in the long run, beat the more bustling and coercive type of game, then South China will probably win the Senior Shield this year.

But to do so they will have to exhibit better shooting powers than was displayed against the Navy on Saturday, when they entered the final of the competition by the only goal scored.

It is an old and platitudinous phrase, but it aptly fits the occasion, when it is remarked that South China did everything but score. When it came to pure football, the Chinese could give the Navy dozens of points, but for a long time it appeared that it was going to get them nowhere. Goal scoring opportunities were missed by the dozen in the first half, and in this respect the whole of the South China vanguard were at fault.

REFUSING GIFT GOALS.

And there was a period when, after their goal had morally fallen half a dozen times, that the Navy might have themselves found the net, and thus, probably, have altered the whole complexion of the game. But both teams were infected with the same germ of "erroritis", and gift goals, like horses, were looked in the mouth.

Of course it wasn't entirely the fault of the Chinese marksmen (!) that South China finished only a goal to the good. Woodman, for one, had quite a lot to say about it, and his game was one of the most entertaining features of the afternoon.

Splendid work was also accomplished by Burhanan and Neweast, and the Navy were hardly up to standard. The half backs could not begin to understand the intricate pattern-weaving of Wong Mee-shun and Co., with the result that the Chinese were always able to develop up to and within the penalty area.

Even Shirras experienced the futility of opposing such machine-like movements, and although he wisely concentrated on holding Pau Ka-ping, his mission made the task of his colleagues very much more difficult.

QUEER LOOKING TEAM.

Apart from the wretched shooting of the attackers, the Chinese played good football, and were always dominant. It was a strange looking combination which took the field, with Tam Kong-pak at back, and neither Li Tin-sang nor Lau Mau in the team. But Tam was brilliant in defence, and the magnificent work of Leung Wing-chui, Tong Kwan and Li Kwok-wai was in itself sufficient to nip in the bud any efforts on the part of the Navy forwards.

Wong Mee-shun, who netted the only goal, was also the only Chinese sharpshooter with any sense of direction. For the rest they indulged in "pretty-pretties" up to the goal line and then "petered" out to give Woodman goal kick after goal kick.

POLICE WITHDRAW FROM MAMAK LEAGUE

AMAZING HOCKEY CONTRETEMPS

By "Bully-Off"

"Owing to the mis-handling of fixtures by the secretary of the Mamak committee, the Police, as a protest, have decided to withdraw from the League".

The above statement was made to me last evening by an official of the Police Mamak hockey team following a misunderstanding in regard to a match which was to be played yesterday with the Incognitos.

The circumstances surrounding the decision are puzzling. It would appear that on Friday, the secretary of the tournament, Mr. A.E.P. Guest, arranged fixtures for the Police team with the Varsity for yesterday morning and the Incognitos yesterday afternoon. He accordingly notified members of the teams on Saturday morning and in the afternoon the games were confirmed with the Captains. The Police University game was duly played but during the match the Police became aware of the fact that the Incognitos were to play the 24th. Battery that afternoon. At the stated time the three teams turned up on the Marina ground and the Police claimed the fixture, but the Mamak secretary stated he had arranged for the Incogs to play the Battery and the Police had not been consulted. The Incognitos decided to play the Battery and forfeit the two points to the Police. The latter claimed the game, deeming themselves to be the stronger combination, but they subsequently decided to take the course mentioned above.

E. V. Reed, captain of the Incognitos, who is concerned in the dispute between the Police and the Mamak League as a result of the confusion of hockey matches during the week end.

CHAMPIONS V THE REST

THE CHINESE R.C.

New Committee Elected at Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Chinese Recreation Club was held at Causeway Bay yesterday afternoon, with Mr. Ng Sze-kwong, President in the chair.

The principal business of the meeting was the amendment of the constitution. The meeting invested the incoming committee with the necessary authority to rebuild the roof of the club house which was badly eaten by white ants.

The open mixed doubles tournament was again organised by the committee and the winners had been M. W. Lo and Miss Enid Lo. The Club championship was won by Tsui Wai-pui while the doubles event went to Ho Ka-lau and Yew Man-ki.

OFFICIAL EXPLANATION

MAMAK SECRETARY DENIES FAULT WAS HIS

Mr. A.E.P. Guest, Mamak Hon. Secretary this morning informed me that he had received a letter from the secretary of the Police team laying the entire blame on him. But according to Mr. Guest "It was a case of general misunderstanding."

"On Saturday afternoon," he said I received a phone message from E. V. Reed, captain of the Incognitos, who stated that he had received a letter from the Battery that they had arranged the ground for the Incognitos-24th. Battery game for Sunday afternoon. Since the Police were playing two games that day he, Mr. Reed thought it would be doing the Police a good turn if he was to cancel the Incognitos-Police match which had also been fixed for Sunday afternoon.

"I agreed," said Mr. Guest, "and told him to notify the Police of his intention. Reed phoned Allen, the Police secretary, but was unable to get in touch with him so I personally sent a message to the Varsity Police Station which apparently did not reach him. As a result the three teams turned up to play on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon."

The Police were originally down to play the Incognitos and I had made arrangements for the Marina ground for that match.

INCOS NOW THIRD.
In their game with the University yesterday morning at Caroline Hill, the Police were defeated by two goals to nil.

The Incognitos improved their position in the Mamak table yesterday when they defeated the 24th. Battery on the Marina ground by three goals to one. The game was fast and interesting, the scorers for the Incogs being Pinto, R. C. Reed and Xavier, Lieut. Garthwaite, replying for the Battery.

INTERPORTER WEDS.

DR. J. A. R. SELBY AND MISS E. B. BLACKBURN

The pretty wedding was solemnized at the Union Church, Kennedy Road on Saturday, the Rev. E. G. Powell officiating, between Dr. John Alexander Robertson Selby, the well-known Interporter Rugby footballer, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. A. McDonald Selby, of Port William, Scotland, and Miss E. B. Blackburn, daughter of Mr. L. J. Blackburn.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly attired in a dress of white, satin, lined with pink, georgette with pearl buttons, crinolines, created by Mme. D'Obry. She carried a sheath of arum lilies and orange blossom. She was attended by Misses Joyce Harris-Walker and Vivienne Blackburn, who wore beautiful dresses of white organdie with gold tissue sashes and gold shoes, and carried sheaths of blue jasper. Miss Athol Dwyer, flower girl, wore a similar dress and carried a posy of blue pansies, and Master Peter Harris-Walker, ring bearer, wore a white sailor suit.

Mrs. C. Harris-Walker was matron of honour and was attired in a black lace ensemble, another creation by Mme. D'Obry.

Mr. Alun Gordon was best man while the duties of groomsmen were carried out by Messrs. Percy Allison and A. P. Hall-Thompson.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Gloucester Building, following which the couple left for Fanning where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride's going away dress was a green satin ensemble by Mme. D'Obry with a short white fur coat.

Another Ceremony

Another interesting and considerable local interest, particularly in Police circles, took place at the Union Church in Hongkong, on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Elsie Edith Wiltshire, daughter of the late Mr. J. Wiltshire and Mrs. A. A. Lewis, was married to Mr. John Orem, of the Hongkong Police Force, late of Carnoustie, Scotland. The Rev. E. G. Powell officiated.

The bride was given away by her step-father, Mr. A. A. Lewis, and looked charming in a dress of white wool lace, with a veil and orange blossom, her bouquet being of arum lilies. She was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Wiltshire, and Miss Ellen Jones, bridesmaids, their dresses being of floral nylon, and their bouquets composed of yellow carnations. Little Miss Maureen Chester-Woods was the flower girl, her fringed bag of lemon georgette, and she carried a basket of yellow carnations.

The bride's mother was dressed in floral nylon, a creation by Madame D'Obry, who also made the bride's and bridesmaids' dresses.

The duties of best-man were carried out by Mr. Harold Brown. There was a largely attended reception at Lang Crawford's restaurant after the ceremony, where the health of the happy couple was duly proposed. Mr. and Mrs. Orem left later for the honeymoon, the bride's going-away dress being of lemon georgette, with a hat to match.

Owing to the Chinese Republic not conferring any decorations,

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

One hundred miles per hour speed-boat racing, the world's thrilling sport, is shown in "Fast Life," the breath-taking action picture featuring William Haines as the Queen's Thruway driver. No effort has been spared to bring the exciting realism of boat racing to the screen. The camera was evidently mounted on a craft following so close to the speeding racers that the results obtain startling effects. The production of "How collisions were avoided" in the big boat smash-up does take "hairs" in a marvel of combined action picture and marine engineering. William Haines has never been offered a role with the virile punch to equal his "Sandy" in this fast-moving racing picture. He continues with the refreshing work of "cracking" that has marked his work in previous pictures, with a new restrained performance in dramatic scenes that shows his real acting ability.

"A Farewell to Arms"

To the thousands who have read Ernest Hemingway's novel, "A Farewell to Arms," the sensitive, intelligent film version now showing at the King's Theatre, cannot be other than a fulfillment. To those who have not read the novel the story will be new, but the film will still be one of the most magnificent love romances the screen has yet produced. Catherine Barkley and Frederic Henry, as portrayed by Helen Hayes and Gary Cooper, readily take a place in the front ranks of screen lovers. Much of the credit for the film's excellence, however, the director given to Frank Borzage, the associate producer. These are the two men who made "Seven Years in Heaven," another love story with a war background, and in their hands, something of the quality of that other film has been brought into "A Farewell to Arms." The film is stark and real and beautiful. It is something you cannot afford to miss!

Famous Comedy Pair

Give Marie Dressler and Polly Moran something to fight about, and watch the laughs roll up. They're at it again—this time as mothers-in-law battling over the lives of their married children, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Prosperity," now showing at the Queen's Theatre. The heroines of "Caught Short" and "Politics" have as many battles as of yore, but the battles are louder and funnier. Then, too, there is a dramatic twist in the new story, and Marie does some straight character acting that tugs at the heartstrings. The story deals with two widows who are friends, in a small town, until their children get married. Each starts in to regulate the new family and fur flies. Polly goes broke, there is a run on the bank, Marie gets a job in a grocery store and figures out a way to put it on a paying basis by "trading" and "swapping." Their battles cause the youngsters to get a divorce, and then everything clashes. Marie sacrifices herself and is plugging to end her life for the insurance money when Sonny comes home, with the profits of a big deal. All ends happily.

"Horse Feathers"

Arthur, Julius, Leonard and Herbert Marx are four of the best-known comedians in the world, but you've probably heard of them. They're known to you as Harpo, Chico, Groucho and Zeppo, respectively. Collectively they're the Four Marx Brothers, and you may see them in "Horse Feathers," their latest picture, at the King's Theatre very shortly. It was in Galesburg, Ill., that Arthur, Julius and Leonard suddenly became Harpo, Groucho and Chico. Art Fisher, one of vaudeville's leading monologists, was playing poker with them after the show one night. He gave them the titles—Groucho, because Julius always looked so serious; Harpo, because Arthur always strummed the harp; and Chico, because Leonard's ability to dispose of fried chicken was well known. The fourth Marx Brother at the time was Milton, who retired during the war and was succeeded by Herbert. Milton was named Gummo, because he always wore rubbers, then called gum boots. And Herbert, when he took Gummo's place, took the title of Zeppo.

The Chinese Government instead have presented Sir John with a huge Loving Cup as a token of gratitude for his achievement. Reuter's Special.

PRESIDENT BOAT CAPSIZES

MADISON'S NISHAP AT SEATTLE

Seattle, March 26.

The 14,000-ton American Mail liner, President Madison, suddenly capsized in the mooring dock today.

She is slowly filling with water.

It is believed three of the crew are trapped.

Later, One hundred and fifty seamen and workmen stampeded for the shore when the President Madison heeled over, with water pouring in through a hole where repair men had taken off three plates.

A call-over revealed that all except five escaped. Two Chinese swam to the quay after crawling through a port hole.

The cause of the disaster is unknown. Reuter.

OVERSEAS CHINESE

Nanking, Mar. 26.

The Overseas Affairs Committee of the National Government met yesterday and discussed, among other things, the conditions of the Chinese immigrants in the Straits Settlement. It is understood that the Committee decided to send a number of recommendations to the Chinese Foreign Office with a view to improving the status of the Chinese immigrants through diplomatic negotiations with the British Authorities. Reuter.

AFTER 14 YEARS.

MOONEY'S CASE TO BE RE-TRIED

San Francisco, Mar. 26.

The famous Mooney-Billings case—America's equivalent to the Dreyfus case—is to have another airing.

After 14 years' arbitration, the Superior Court of the United States has granted Mooney a fresh trial on the charges arising out of the dynamiting outrage in 1916.

Mooney was condemned to death on a charge of engaging in a bomb explosion on Preparedness Day in San Francisco, which killed a number of people.

Popular feeling ran high in his favour and the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Since the trial the important witnesses against Mooney and Billings have been proved to have committed perjury, and the Judge who tried them and 10 of the jurors who convicted them have declared that they no longer believe them to have been guilty. The Wickersham Commission which recently investigated crime in America described the case as "shocking to one's sense of justice."

Owing however to the strength of those business interests in California which are opposed to the release of Mooney and Billings on the ground that they are dangerous revolutionaries, none of the competent authorities in California has dared to release the men, although one Governor was urged to do so by President Wilson himself.

Witnesses who testified against them, the jury, the trial judge, and arresting police officers have admitted that Messrs. Mooney and Billings are being punished for a

THE ROYAL SCOTS.

CELEBRATIONS OF TERCENTENARY

London, Mar. 26.
Britain's oldest infantry regiment, the Royal Scots, celebrated its ter-centenary to-day.

A ceremonial parade of the depot troops was held at Glencorse Barracks, Middlethian and an Order of the Day by H. B. H. The Princess Royal, Colonel-in-chief of the Regiment was read.

The Order stated that on March 25, 1633, King Charles I signed a Royal Warrant authorising the recruitment in Scotland of 1,200 men to form the regiment.

The Order was also read to a parade of the First Battalion at Aldershot.—Reuter's Special.

On the field of battle, the Royal Scots have a splendid record. They fought at Tangier in 1680 and at Namur in 1695. Under the flag of the Duke of Marlborough they covered themselves with glory in the reign of Queen Anne. In every war in which Great Britain has been engaged the Royal Scots have been to the fore—at Waterloo, in the Crimea, in India, China and South Africa.

During the Great War they were engaged in most sectors, serving in France and Flanders, Macedonia, Gallipoli, Egypt and Archangel.

The uniform is of scarlet with blue facings and the Hunting Stuart tartan. The regiment is formed of three battalions the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 32nd, 33rd, 34th, 35th, 36th, 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 41st, 42nd, 43rd, 44th, 45th, 46th, 47th, 48th, 49th, 50th, 51st, 52nd, 53rd, 54th, 55th, 56th, 57th, 58th, 59th, 60th, 61st, 62nd, 63rd, 64th, 65th, 66th, 67th, 68th, 69th, 70th, 71st, 72nd, 73rd, 74th, 75th, 76th, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 81st, 82nd, 83rd, 84th, 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92nd, 93rd, 94th, 95th, 96th, 97th, 98th, 99th, 100th.

At present at Aldershot (for Dover), the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 32nd, 33rd, 34th, 35th, 36th, 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 41st, 42nd, 43rd, 44th, 45th, 46th, 47th, 48th, 49th, 50th, 51st, 52nd, 53rd, 54th, 55th, 56th, 57th, 58th, 59th, 60th, 61st, 62nd, 63rd, 64th, 65th, 66th, 67th, 68th, 69th, 70th, 71st, 72nd, 73rd, 74th, 75th, 76th, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 81st, 82nd, 83rd, 84th, 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92nd, 93rd, 94th, 95th, 96th, 97th, 98th, 99th, 100th.

In addition there are two Territorial Army battalions, the 4th/5th and the 7th/9th, and an allied regiment of Canadian Militia, the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Highlanders), of Victoria, B. C.

JEWS PERSECUTED IN GERMANY

DISMISSALS FROM COURTS AND CINEMAS

Berlin, Mar. 26.
Following the decision to ban Jewish judges in Berlin Law Courts, as from April 1, the Bavarian Minister for Justice has ordered that Jewish judges shall not be allowed to preside at criminal or disciplinary courts and Jewish public prosecutors shall not be allowed to act on behalf of the State.—Reuter's Special.

Protest Lodged.

London, Mar. 26.
Protests are being lodged against the alleged anti-Jewish excesses in Germany.

The world Alliance for combating Anti-Semitism, which has already proclaimed a boycott against German goods, announces that the ban also applies to German restaurants and cinemas where German films are being exhibited.

A report that the Pope is contemplating intervention has been denied. It was learned in Vatican City that diplomatic action is unlikely unless the persecution becomes serious.

Meanwhile, Herr Goering has assured the Foreign Press that the Berlin Government has no intention of discriminating against Jews or interfering with their personal liberty.

Whilst denying stories of atrocities and murders, Herr Goering admitted that cases of "individual action" had occurred, but said that the Government was making every effort to prevent a recurrence.—Reuter's Special.

various political prisoners whom rumour had reported to be either tortured or dead.

The communist leaders Thalmann and Torgler were among those seen by Reuter's correspondent at Police Headquarters.

Thalmann declared that he had no complaint and that he had not been molested. Others spoke similarly, but Ludwig Renn, author of the book "War," spoke rather bitterly of prison fare and treatment generally.

High police officials estimate that there are between 5,000 and 6,000 political prisoners in Germany at the present time.

He declared that many were under "protective custody" at their own request.—Reuter's Special.

AIR CRASH EXPLOSION

DESTROYED

New York, Mar. 26.

Twelve persons were killed as the result of a shocking tragedy at Oakland, California, to-day, the sequel to an air smash.

An entire family of six in one house was wiped out.

The crash of the plane was followed by a terrific explosion which killed the three occupants instantly.

The machine was flying very low during bad weather and suddenly nose-dived to earth. The explosion was followed by an explosion of such violence that only one person out of the ten occupying three private houses just by escaped.

HOUSES CATCH FIRE.

Two of the houses caught fire and were destroyed, a family of six being trapped and burned to death in one of them.

The victims of the extraordinary mishap were the pilot and two passengers, two children and seven adults in the row of private houses near which the crash occurred. The accident, according to police, was due to low flying during a rainstorm.—Reuter.

HIGH INDIGNATION AMONG JEWS

IN HUMANITY"

TALK OF A PROTEST

(SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH.")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, March 27, 7.45 a.m.)

THE INDIGNATION OF THE JEWS OF AMERICA AS A RESULT OF THE ALLEGED PERSECUTION OF JEWS IN GERMANY IS ENGAGING THE CLOSE ATTENTION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

It is officially stated that the State Department is taking great care to avoid a possible misunderstanding. The United States' attitude to recent developments is that it desires to be helpful, but is deeply interested in the welfare of humanity.

Accordingly, the information received from the American Embassy and Consulates in Germany will be withheld until the record is complete.

There has been some talk of the possibility of an official protest being lodged.—Reuter.

Later.
The State Department has announced an official investigation of the conditions in Germany, based upon reports received from the American Embassies and Consulates has indicated that "whereas there was, for a short time, physical mistreatment of Jews, this phase may be considered to have virtually terminated."

It is understood that no official protest to Germany is planned.—Reuter's Special.

NAZIS STIR UP HORNET'S NEST

AROUSE FEELING

BOYCOTT

London, Mar. 26.
The anti-Jewish excesses and official persecution of Jews in Germany is causing grave concern abroad. Marked hostility to the Nazi regime is manifest in many centres as a direct result.

A boycott of German goods has been declared by the Jews of Poland, where they constitute a considerable proportion of the population and the movement is spreading rapidly throughout the country.

Agitation for a boycott of German goods is also marked among the American Jews, although as far as can be ascertained anti-Jewish excesses are not now occurring in the Rhineland, where the American members of the Cologne branch of the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany have drafted a cable to the National Chamber of Commerce in Washington deprecating the boycott of German goods and declaring that there has been no interference with American citizens, firms or property.

LONDON MEETING.

Strong feeling is also apparent in England. A meeting was held to-day in London of the Jewish Board of Deputies, representing the Jews of the British Empire.

The meeting decided not to support as a body the boycott of German goods as a protest against the treatment of Jews in Germany, but to take all steps possible to secure recognition of the rights of Jews in Germany to freedom and justice.

The reactions among the Nazis of the widespread demonstration against the anti-Jewish measures undertaken by them are awaited with considerable interest by all sections in England.—Reuter.

MURDERER POLICE CHIEF.

Berlin, Mar. 26.
A number of new Nazi Police-Présidents appointed in Prussia to-day include ex-Lieutenant Haines, who becomes Police Chief at Breslau. Haines was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment with hard labour for the murder of a suspected traitor in the so-called "Black Reichswehr" some years ago. The sentence was reduced to five years, but he was released within two years and became a fanatical Nazi member of the Reichstag.

The Thuringian Minister of Education has ordered the removal from the National Theatre at Weimar of the plaque commemorating the adoption there of the Weimar Constitution.

The police have placed 270 alleged Communists under arrest at Stuttgart and have sent them to an internment camp at Neuberg.—Reuter.

MACAO GOVERNOR COMING

FRIDAY

His Excellency the Governor of Macao, Lieut.-Col. Miranda, will arrive in Hongkong at 11.30 a.m. on Friday next by the Sui An to pay an official visit to His Excellency Sir William Peel.

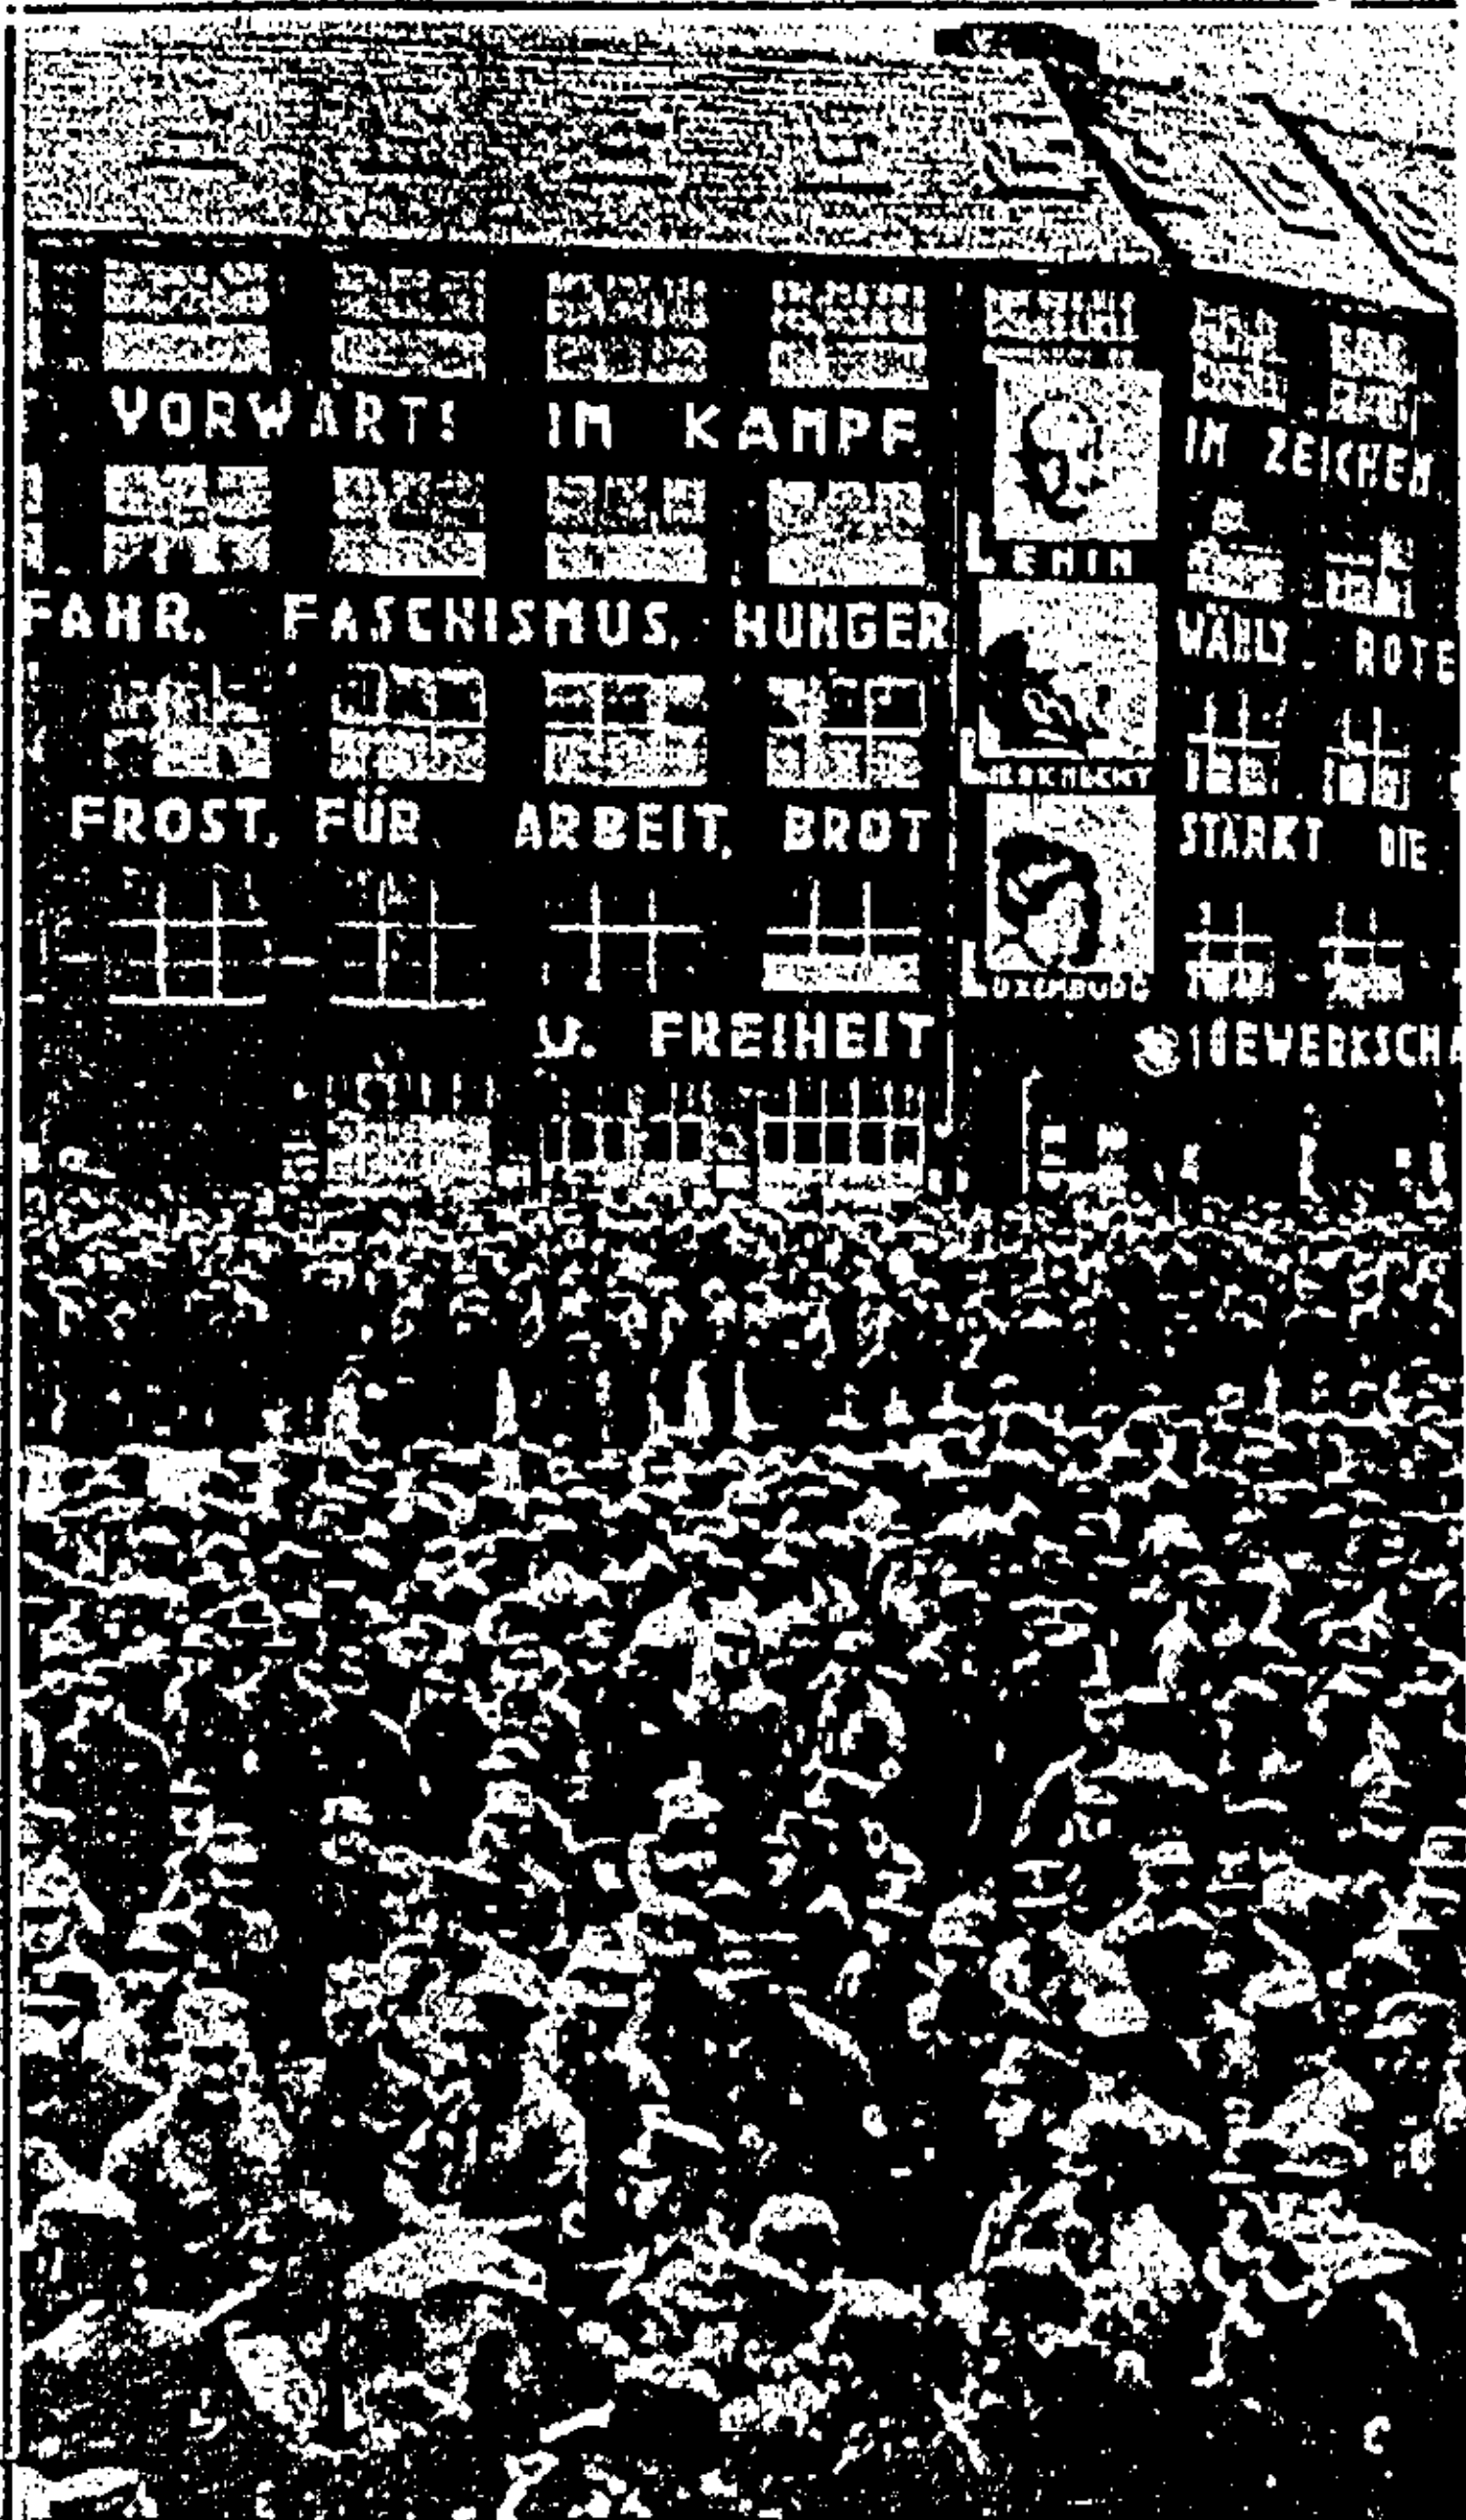

At the official landing, Lieut.-Col. Miranda will be met by the Governor of Hongkong and escorted to Government House.

The Governor of Macao will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Miranda. Madame Miranda has been compelled to cancel the visit owing to ill-health.

A dinner party and reception will be held at Government House at night in honour of the distinguished visitor.

Lieut.-Col. Miranda and Miss Miranda will leave for Canton the following evening.

Pressure has increased quickly over China, a strong anticyclone being centred to the north of the Lower Yangtze Valley. The depression over Tongking has filled up and another depression is indicated over the Loochoos. French monsoon will prevail over the China Coast and the Northern China Sea. Local forecast:—North and N.E. winds; fresh; cloudy with mist or light rain.

WAGE CUTS

London, Mar. 27.
Several hundred employees of the huge Ford Works at Dagenham came out on strike last night as a protest against wage cuts.

It is stated that the cuts were enforced in the works last week. The strikers consist of the majority of the night-shift.—Reuter.

JAPAN AND LEAGUE

Tokyo, Mar. 27.

The official notification of Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations was approved by the Privy Council this morning.

The Prime Minister, Admiral Viscount Saito, is to proceed to the Imperial Palace at three o'clock this afternoon to obtain Imperial Sanction.

After this has been obtained notice of withdrawal will be cabled to Geneva. The text of the document is being despatched to Japanese Embassies abroad.

LEAGUE PROVISIONS.

Japan's position under Article One of the Covenant is arousing some speculation. Paragraph Three of Article One reads:

"Any Member of the League may, after two years' notice of its intention to do so, withdraw from the League, provided that all its international obligations and all its obligations under this Covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal."—Reuter.

DEMANDED

New Delhi, Mar. 27.
The Executive Board of the Moslem Conference, after a long discussion on the British Government's proposals for the future constitution of the India Federation, decided to come out in opposition.

A resolution was passed by the Board expressing the profound dissatisfaction of the Moslems with the White Paper.

The Moslems are prepared to consider it anew if radical changes are made. They demand, among other things, a severe curtailment of the powers granted to the Provincial Governors and the Governor-General.—Reuter.

SOVIET INTERNESS
IN SHANGHAI

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, March 27.
Having been interned for several weeks in Soviet territory where they were forced to take refuge by the victorious Japanese troops, over a hundred and fifty members of the families of the Kirin Volunteers under the command of General Wang Teh-lin were brought to Shanghai from the North by steamer yesterday.

The party including women and children, including the family of General Wang Teh-lin. General Wang himself is at present in Moscow with General Su Ping-wan.—Reuter.

The secreting of 38 tons of raw opium mixture in two tins, which were in turn placed in a tin of fish oil, was revealed in the Central Police Court this morning by Revenue Officer Ward before Mr. Schofield. Defendant, who was arrested on the Douglas Wharf, was fined $150 with the alternative of six weeks.

N. Z. TEST ABANDONED

LIFELESS PLAY ENDED

ENGLAND VASTLY SUPERIOR

Christchurch, Mar. 27.

Only by bringing about a sensational collapse can England hope to defeat New Zealand in the first unofficial Test match which concludes to-day.

The M.C.C. combination proved vastly superior in all departments, but the New Zealanders, playing for a draw, sat on the spine so effectively that although the remaining wickets fell to-day for an addition of only seventy runs, they had almost removed possibility of defeat by tea-time.

Between resumption of the match this morning, at 153 for 3 wickets, and the tea interval when, following on, they had obtained 24 for 0 in their second innings, New Zealand scored only 94 runs!

LIFELESS BATTING.

Lifeless batting such as this took practically all interest out of the game from the viewpoint of the 5,000 spectators present.

The 153 runs obtained on Saturday afternoon was slow going, but this morning they excelled themselves obtaining only 43 runs before lunch!

Bright sunny weather prevailed and the wicket was in excellent condition. The New Zealand batting was lacking entirely in enterprise.

KERR DISMISSED.

The fourth wicket fell at 186, the partnership between Kerr and Page adding 33 runs, Kerr's share being seventeen. He was smartly taken by Hammond off Brown's bowling.

Ten runs later, James was given out leg before wicket to Tate.

ALL OUT 223.

Only nine runs had been added after lunch when Page fell a victim to Allen, the signal for the beginning of the end. Smith was clean-bowled by Tate soon afterwards, with 212 up. Freeman's wicket was shattered by Voce, and an attempt to hit by Badcock was brought to an end when Newman was completely deceived by a ball from Voce.

LISBON'S ALARM
DISPELLED

Lisbon, Mar. 26.

Fears recently expressed of possible Italian encroachment upon Portuguese colonial territory in Africa have been set at rest.

Signor Mussolini has no territorial designs on the colonial possessions of Portugal according to a declaration received from Rome by the Portuguese Government.

Il Duce declares that he has never expressed any ambition to possess Angola or any other Portuguese possession in Africa, and he assures the Portuguese Government of his feeling of great friendship for the country whose colonial efforts towards progress are appreciated and respected throughout the world.—Reuter.

SHIP RUNS INTO JUNK

A drowning tragedy occurred in Capsulmum Pass last night, the victim being the younger brother of the master of a cargo boat which was sunk after a collision with an unknown steamer, according to a report issued at Police Headquarters this morning.

The master, Wong Fat, was picked up by the S.S. Tin Ting, returning to port, after a terrifying ordeal in the water for many hours. He was rescued in an exhausted condition, but recovered sufficiently to relate his story to the police at Tsun Wan.

In his report to the police, the master stated that at about 7.15 last night, he was sailing from Nam Tao to Hongkong, and when in Capsulmum Pass an unknown steamer collided with his craft, which filled rapidly and sank. He and his younger brother, Kwong Chung, were thrown into the sea. The master did not see his brother, who is believed to have been drowned. Although a search was made in the vicinity of the tragedy the body was not recovered.

standing bowlers. Tate gave away only 42 runs in 27 overs. Voce took three wickets for 27 runs.

New Zealand followed on and at tea Dempster and Whitlaw, by the same deliberate methods had put on 24 runs without loss.

MATCH ABANDONED

Later.
The match was abandoned as a draw owing to the development of a violent duststorm which obscured the players from view. The score was then 35 for 0 wicket, Dempster's contribution being 14 and Whitlaw's seventeen. Voce gave away 13 runs in four overs, Tate 5 in 3, Hammond 2 in 2, Allen, 5 in 4, and Verity 6 in 3.—Reuter.

The Necessity for Repose.

"I'm never off my feet!" How often this plaint of the worried, hard-worked housewife is heard! How true it is—and how unnecessary!

Granted that much of her work must be done "on her feet," that she must stand for such things as bed-making, sweeping, dusting, &c. Yet there remains a great deal that can be done just as well sitting down.

Take, for instance, all the work at a kitchen sink. A woman, no matter how tired, will stand day after day over the sink, without apparently realising that she could peel potatoes, wash up, clean fish and vegetables, and do the hundred and one other sink jobs equally efficiently were she seated. Similarly, there is no need to stand to mix cakes or puddings or roll pastry at the kitchen table.

The best seat for these places is a high office stool. It has neither back nor arms to get in one's way, and it takes up the minimum of space. Should there be a separate kitchen and scullery, then there should be two stools, one always ready at the sink and the other by the table. A chair is not so suitable for the purpose, for one needs to sit rather high above one's work, and experiments should be made with sink stool, and table to ascertain the most comfortable height, then the stool legs can be cut accordingly.

It is a queer thing, but the more overdone a woman is the less she seems capable of resting! Instead of seizing every occasion for conserving her precious nervous energy, she lets slip one golden opportunity after another. The kettle is not quite on the boil perhaps, or a dish in the oven needs a few more minutes. Everything else is ready—and the woman waits "hanging over" the fire! "It's only a minute or two," she says, "it's not worth sitting down."

Minutes, however, mount up wonderfully quickly into hours, and, if used aright, these intervals throughout the day will make all the difference between work accomplished without undue fatigue and work that brings her near to breaking point.

Absolute repose should be the rule for these breathing spaces—repose in an easy chair (a light bentwood rocker is excellent), with eyes closed, feet up on the fender, and every muscle relaxed to the uttermost.

A Housewife's Notes

To retain the colour and flavour of carrots, wash and boil before peeling.

When cooking vegetable marrow, bake the marrow instead of boiling with the skin on, which keeps it free from water.

Dried orange skins and also grape fruit skins make good fire-lighters.

Soft soap, mixed with bees' wax and turpentine, makes a good floor polish.

Joan Crawford.

Hollywood.—The sports dress and top coat ensemble is making headway here as a runaway outfit.

Joan Crawford has a gray tweed two-piece of this type, the dress very simple, with square neckline, buttoned down one corner with three metal buttons, the skirt's fullness coming in kick pleats in the centre of the front and back. The topcoat is very, very English, with mannish cut, patch pockets, and three-quarters length. She has a squarish beret of the same gray tweed, a beret that is different.

No single type of costume can be upheld as the thing to wear anywhere, in Hollywood. The variety of costumes is what creates things interesting. Take luncheon, for instance. This week these varied costumes loomed as mightily smart on their wearers.

Glaudette Colbert, back from New York minus her sinus trouble lunching in the Paramount Cafe wearing a black and white diagonal plaid dress, with a tight fitting black crepe jacket, and a black ribbon hat, tiny, with fringed bow at the top of it.

Barbara Kent, lunching at the Brown Derby, smart as a picture in a gray wool spring suit with skirt and three-quarters coat, gray felt hat and gray shoes.

Gretchen Wilson, going into the RKO, wearing a brilliant red dress and topcoat to match, with an equally brilliant red turban.

Diana Wynyard, at Sard's wearing a sleek black crepe dress, with exquisite lingerie touches, a tiny black hat tilted over her right eye and a mink coat.

EVENING GOWNS.

White satin evening gowns have all the cachet of frocks made to be worn after dark. And white satin evening gowns are very much in the picture just now. Grey satin is perfect for a large dinner.

If you don't wish to appear in a deeply-cut out evening gown, a little lace jacket-bodice veils the back and shoulders.

Evening gowns follow the high-front trend, and Jewellery and scarves should be planned to take these lines into consideration in both evening and day ensembles. If choker effects in Jewellery suit you, this is the time to wear them.

There is very little costume jewellery in the collections this year. I notice a tendency, when jewelled motifs are used at all, to incorporate them into the model itself.

A thin circle of strass in the front of an evening gown is seen, for instance, weaving two coloured scarves through and through it.

Big brooches are being worn on evening gowns, and crystal bracelets, fat and round, in shades matching the gown or contrasting with it. Ebony bracelets are favoured by some women to accompany black frocks.

There is a tentative revival in Paris of the fashion of wearing flowers in the hair. There are new wreaths of daisies, ranunculus, or small gardenias, for the evening coiffure. This is a fashion which may be charming, or it may be a terrible mistake.

CHAPTER XXXVI

Fate took a hand in Sheila's affairs with the abruptness that is often Fate's way.

She had been idle for weeks now. If anyone had asked, Sheila would have said she had "plenty of money saved." But plenty of money minus $50, minus $25 and smaller sums will deplete any account if given time enough. And this had happened to Sheila's savings.

"Sheila," Tillie Samper said one morning, "You and I are going down town to-day! We're going to have permanent waves and we're going to buy new hats. There's nothing that sets a woman up like a new hat!"

Sheila eyed herself languidly in the mirror. "I suppose I look terribly," she said. "But I like to give my skin a rest when I'm not working." She rubbed one hand across her smooth pale cheek.

"A little pale, that's all," diagnosed the resolute Tillie. She rose. "We'll fix that soon enough. Come on."

"I don't believe I have any money."

"I don't think I have enough money to go shopping."

"Oh, we don't need to spend a lot. All the stores are offering wonderful bargains. You can pick up the cutest things—"

"Not if anyone is looking!" Sheila retorted. "I don't believe I have a single sou. Look in the book. It's in my handkerchief case."

The savings book, duly produced, told a sad story indeed. Not quite so sad as Sheila had forecast but sad enough. The balance was $19.40. Since the first of the month, barely three weeks ago, Sheila had made frequent withdrawals of sums ranging from $100. to $10.

"Sheila Shayne—you've been loaning money, haven't you?" Tillie said accusingly.

"I have. What else can you do? It's simpler than listening to sob stories." She sank wearily into a chair. "I didn't realize until this morning, though, that it was going so fast. Guess I'll have to go to work!"

"Say, in the mood you're in you couldn't get a job anywhere!"

"No, I suppose not."

"Then snap out of it, do you hear?" Tillie's voice rose wrathfully. It was hard to be cross with Sheila, but it seemed to loyal little Tillie the one chance.

"Listen! Get out and get yourself a job, and if I hear of you giving another cent to anyone—anyone—I'll—"

"I'll annihilate you! I will!"

"Tillie, I guess I don't care what happens to me!"

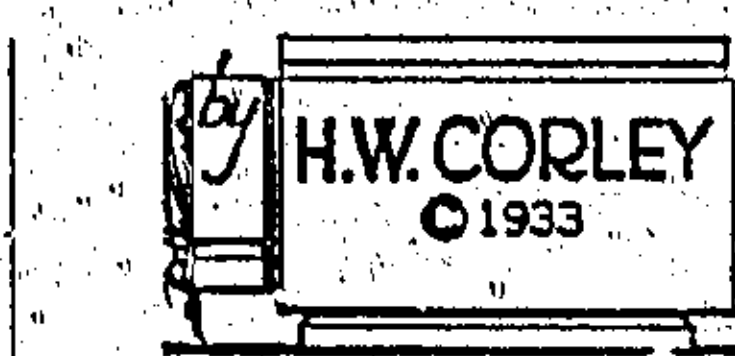

"Darling!" Pressed against Tillie's shoulder, Sheila sobbed as if her heart would break.

"You love Jim, don't you, Tillie?" she said when she was able to speak. "Could you stand it to lose him? Would you care what happened to you if you did?"

"I know," Tillie's voice broke sharply. "But, honey, it's hard to see. I know, but there are other things. There are other people—"

Half an hour later, smartly gowned, as serene as if nothing had occurred, the two girls sauntered forth to look for a job for Sheila. At Johnny Harrell's office Sheila faced the disgruntled agent with something akin to alarm.

"Going to listen to reason, are you?" he grunted. "Fine! Going to tell me you'll take a role I've just broken my neck to fill? Going to say you'll sign up now and take a good contract when I get it for you? Well, I haven't a thing for you. Not a thing! Hold on—wait a moment! Miss Rosenbaum, hand me that letter from Abbott, will you?"

Miss Rosenbaum, haughty, efficient and tailored, eyed Sheila as coolly as if she, too, had not shared Harrell's harassment in trying to find a substitute for Sheila.

"The position was filled this morning," Mr. Harrell. Grace Sawyer has the part."

Harrell frowned. "Well, then, that's out! Tell you what, Sheila, if you really want to go to work I'll have you in a show inside a week. What a night club job to fill in?"

"If she can use her own routine," interposed Tillie. "She isn't up to filling in for someone else."

Tillie was high-salaried and Harrell heard her with respect. "Well, Club Volens wants a single," he said. "You'll do fine. Toodle up there and I'll get Grady on the wire."

The two girls left. "He'll tell Grady he scoured the town to find you," Tillie giggled as they went down the dusty stairs to the street.

"That's all right with me," Sheila said wearily.

"She'll snap out of it when she hears the music," Tillie told herself. "She can't listen to music and not dance!"

The girls found Grady seated in the tiny office at the rear of the garish night club which in its midday aspect looked forlorn and vacant. Tables were placed on tables. Cleaning men were listlessly swabbing the floor. An aproned waiter was gathering table appointments together on a tray.

"Yeah, Johnny phoned," Grady said, without taking his feet off the nearest chair. "I've got a spot that needs filling. Danced here last year, didn't you, with Rodney? If you are as good in a single you might work in all right."

"She's better in a single," the faithful Tillie thrust in and Grady raised a sarcastic eyebrow.

"Am I doing business with her or you, sister?" he wanted to know.

"I'm very good in a single," Sheila hastened to say in her own behalf.

Grady grinned. "O. K. You take a 15 minute spot in the show at 10.30 and another at 11.45. Get in touch with Mack. He's the leader and see if you can work out something big. Ever plug a song?"

"Have you one you want plugged?" asked Sheila cautiously.

Grady grinned again. "You and Mack be down here for a rehearsal at 4.30," he said. "Mack has a song I want to work in for Blind Timmy. It's a peach."

Blind Timmy! She could earn money, fill in until a real job came along and help Timmy as well. Her voice was well adapted to most of Timmy's music. Yet, as Sheila well knew, it wasn't a singing voice. It was a husky sort of recitation. Whatever it was, it went over. That was all that was necessary.

"Timmy'll be tickled to death," Tillie chattered as she and Sheila set off together. Tillie had an engagement to lunch with her husband and Sheila decided not to join them. Left alone, she sought out Mack, the orchestra leader, by calling Joe Paris' office and asking for the phone number. Mack seemed to be glad she was to dance. But did she need a rehearsal, he asked. Couldn't she just take the number home and run through it?

"I can but I won't," said Sheila firmly. "Grady's orders."

Mack—billed as Merry MacIntyre and his Jazz Boys—seemed less than merry as he reluctantly agreed to arrive at the Club two hours earlier than usual.

"What are you going to dance?" Tillie asked later when she found Sheila in her room busy at her costume trunk.

The apathy of the morning had fled. Colour flamed in Sheila's cheeks. She sat on the floor, surrounded by floating chiffon, gay satins, feathered costumes, sequined boleros, flaming velvets.

"I thought I'd do that nightingale number," Sheila answered, absorbed. "Then as an encore—if I have one—that tap dance I did in 'Fine Feathers.' I like that. If Mack thinks something else would be better we can decide later."

Sui Yau-cheung pleaded "Not Guilty" at the Criminal Sessions this morning, before Mr. Justice Wood, acting Chief Justice, when he appeared in answer to two charges of being in possession of implements of forgery for the purpose of making spurious Siamese banknotes.

The jury comprised Messrs. J. A. Shaw (foreman), W. R. Wilkinson, E. A. Dos Remedios, N. Macarthur, R. Morrison, S. Edgar and I. L. Goldenberg.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, assistant Attorney General, for the Crown said the articles for the possession of which the accused was charged were found on February 2nd, when the police visited a house in Victoria. When the police entered, they found the accused in bed and arrested him. On a table near the window of the rear cubicle in which he was sleeping they found a number of articles used in the manufacture of banknotes and a one-tical Siamese note. In the left-hand drawer they found one of the glass plates the subject of one of the counts, while in a suitcase under the accused's bed was found the second glass plate. On each of the plates were marks similar to those on Siamese banknotes of one-tical and twenty-tical value.

The rest of the premises was then searched and further articles were found, including glass and copper plates. It would be proved in evidence that accused, with a man named Li, had shared the cubicle for some six weeks prior to the visit of the police. When accused was charged at the Central Police Station, he said he asked Li to make him a photograph for the purpose of a trade mark, and when he was given that photograph he found it contained the whole design of a tical banknote. Accused said he told Li it was against the law to use such a photograph, and Li then made him a photograph of a note with the design of the centre with a blank on the four sides. When Li went away he left both plates on the premises.

On another floor, added Mr. Fraser, the police found a blue print which corresponded in detail to the glass plate of the one-tical note.

His Lordship asked if any evidence would be called to show that the notes were definitely Siamese notes, to which Mr. Fraser replied that he had not thought that necessary. "The Siamese Consul was approached," he added, "but he says he has never seen a Siamese note."

The case is proceeding.

DOMESTIC TROUBLE
THE CAUSE

When two Chinese women were charged with disorderly behaviour at West Point, before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court to-day, it was stated that they were watched by a crowd of between 300 and 400 children. They were separated with difficulty by a policeman, and resumed the brawl after being brought into the Station charge-room. It was impossible, said the prosecuting Police Officer, for him to get a word in sideways, and what they were quarrelling about still remained a mystery.

Questioned in Court, one of the women denied any relationship with the other, but the other said she was her sister-in-law. The trouble appeared to be a domestic one, and his Worship advised them to take it to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

Both women were bound over.

DAGGERSFIGURE IN COURT CASE

Some very old swords and daggers were produced before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when a man named Kwok Lun was charged with being in unlawful possession of these weapons in Kowloon City.

Inspector Smith stated that the weapons were very old ones and dated back to the time before Kowloon came under British rule. He applied for a week's formal remand in order to make further investigations into some literature seized on defendant's premises, referring to a Triad Society. This literature was now in the hands of the S.C.A.

It was intimated that the case would be dealt with summarily and that Mr. C. Y. Kwan had been instructed to appear for the defence.

THE ROYAL SCOTS.

CELEBRATIONS OF TERCENTENARY

London, Mar. 26.

Britain's oldest infantry regiment, the Royal Scots, celebrated its ter-centenary to-day.

A ceremonial parade of the depot troops was held at Glencorse Barracks, Midlothian and an Order of the Day by H. R. H. The Princess Royal, Colonel-in-chief of the Regiment, was read.

The Order stated that on March 25, 1633, King Charles I signed a Royal Warrant authorising the recruitment in Scotland of 1,200 men to form the regiment.

The Order was also read to a parade of the First Battalion at Aldershot.—Reuter's Special.

On the field of battle, the Royal Scots have a splendid record. They fought at Tangier in 1680 and at Namur in 1695. Under the flag of the Duke of Marlborough they covered themselves with glory in the reign of Queen Anne.

In every war in which Great Britain has been engaged the Royal Scots have been to the fore—at Waterloo, in the Crimea, in India, China and South Africa.

During the Great War they were engaged in most sectors, serving in France and Flanders, Macedonia, Gallipoli, Egypt and Archangel.

The uniform is of scarlet with blue facings and the Hunting Stuart tartan. The regiment is formed of three battalions the 1st, 2nd, (the 1st Foot) being stationed at present at Aldershot (for Dover), the 2nd, Batt. (1st Foot) at Quetta and the 3rd Batt. (1st Foot) at Edinburgh Light Infantry Militia, at Glencorse. In addition there are two Territorial Army battalions, the 4th/6th and the 7th/9th, and an allied regiment of Canadian Militia, the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Highlanders), of Victoria, B. C.

SPARY V. SPARY

ORDER AGAINST HUSBAND FOR MAINTENANCE

An order for maintenance was made against Mr. Austin Spary on Saturday, when the summons brought before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court by his wife, Mrs. Ida Spary, was concluded. An application for leave to appeal against the decision was granted to the defence.

Mr. D. B. Evans appeared for Mrs. Spary and Mr. Horace Lo was for the defendant.

His Worship, in finding against the defendant, said that there was a great conflict of evidence, some of which was incredible. On the other hand he was not satisfied that the children had been in any way neglected or that neglect to maintain formed any actual part of the case of the complainant against the defendant. His Worship was of the opinion there had been no neglect to maintain.

He did not consider that the defendant had been drunk as often or so seriously as the complainant made out. The main difficulty in the complainant's case to his Worship's mind was that there had been no evidence given on her behalf that her health had been in any way affected. Mr. Evans had, of course, pointed out that cruelty included conduct of such a character as to give rise to reasonable apprehension of danger to health.

Continuing, his Worship said he would have liked some medical evidence on the matter, but having in view the sequence of what appeared to be their occurring frequently this year he thought he must arrive at the conclusion that the complainant had reason to apprehend danger to life, limb or health if she continued to live with the defendant.

As regard the taking of the children from Kowloon to Stanley, the evidence of the defence was such as to raise grave doubts against the evidence of the complainant, but was not so decisive to prove that the complainant's witnesses had been telling lies.

"I think, therefore," continued his Worship, "the complainant's case is to be preferred; but before I finally give my decision as to what is to be done I think I should like to see you both (Mr. Lo and Mr. Evans) in Chambers."

Leave to Appeal.

When the Court resumed shortly afterwards his Worship, addressing both parties, said: "My order at present is this: that complainant, be no longer bound to co-habit with defendant and defendant pay complainant, on account, $200 on or before April 1, 1933. Further orders to be considered and made within one week. The defendant will have to pay costs."

Mr. Lo: I think it will be convenient for me now to make an application, that is for leave to appeal against your Worship's decision. My application is based on the fact that your Worship's decision is contrary to the weight of evidence which has been adduced in this case. Your Worship has yourself commented on the difficulty which your Worship felt in arriving at the decision which has been given, and I don't think it is necessary for me to say very much more. I ask your Worship to allow me to appeal in this case.

His Worship: Appeal on law or on fact?

Mr. Lo: The appeal will be both on law and on fact. As regards the appeal on law the defendant is entitled as a matter of right to so appeal and my application to your Worship, therefore, does not include that ground; but it is intended to appeal, your Worship, both on law and on fact.

His Worship: I am prepared to grant the application for appeal.

OBITUARY.

MRS. CHARLOTTE GRIMSHAW
PASSES AWAY AT HOME

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. Grimshaw, will learn with deep regret of the death of Mrs. Grimshaw which took place at Liverpool on Saturday. News of her death reached the Colony yesterday by cable.

Mrs. Charlotte Grimshaw was the wife of Mr. T. Grimshaw who was employed at the Tai Koo Sugar Refinery for a number of years until his retirement in 1920.

Mrs. Grimshaw was the mother of Mr. John Grimshaw, who is employed on one of the Blue Funnel liners.

Mrs. R. Shannon

The death took place at the Kowloon Hospital yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Shannon, wife of Inspector R. Shannon, of the Hongkong Police Force.

The late Mrs. Shannon was a well known figure in police social circles, and counted a large circle of friends to whom her sad death following an operation will come as a shock.

She leaves behind her husband and three children, with whom the greatest sympathy will be felt. The funeral takes place this evening at the Happy Valley cemetery.

THE HELENA MAY INSTITUTE.OPENING OF NEW KOWLOON
BRANCH PREMISES

Seventeen years have now elapsed since the Helena May Institute for Women was founded in the name of Lady May.

The institution has quietly grown. Originally its hostel contained eight bedrooms. At the present time there are twenty bedrooms, and this hostel is taxed to its uttermost, applications for admission being in excess of the available accommodation. The hostel is not merely for permanent residents; the aim of the Council has been to reserve a room for visitors also.

The membership of the Institute now numbers 640 and continues to show a steady increase. The Institute has many and varied attractions, being equipped with spacious social rooms and an excellent library. It provides a place of assembly for gatherings and societies of every kind, religious, literary, artistic and musical.

An organised programme during the winter session includes concerts, when opportunity is given to listen to talented musicians. Entertainments given for charities have frequently been granted the hospitality of the building.

In accordance with the constitution of the Institute a religious meeting is held weekly (every Friday at 10.30 a.m.) in connection with which the Institute has been greatly indebted to the clergy of the Colony. Attendance at these meetings is open to the public.

One of the main objects of the Institute is to provide a meeting place for women who are following professional and business careers in the Colony, and to enlist interest in its various activities.

A welcome is also given to all women visiting the Colony, including stewardesses who are cordially invited to use the Institute.

Special terms for missionaries are quoted, many of whom find the Institute of great use during their summer leave. Meals at reasonable rates are always obtainable.

In January, 1930, the Council embarked upon a new venture when they opened a branch in costumes and, rising, finally got out a suitcase and began to fold the costumes.

"Got stockings?" asked the practical Tillie.

"Plenty, thanks."

Kowloon. This was established at No. 8, Aimal Villas. An endeavour was made to provide in Kowloon facilities similar to those already furnished in Victoria. The experiment has been cramped for want of sufficient space and it has now been decided to move into larger premises. The Kowloon Branch will, on April 1, be opened in its new home Nos. 168 and 170 Boundary Street (opposite La Salle College), where it will continue its enterprise. The excellent accommodation, a good library, and facilities for meals and light refreshments will, it is hoped, attract many new members to the Kowloon Branch.

An annual subscription of $12, payable to the Secretary, entitles members to the use of the Institute and the Kowloon Branch.

LABOUR STANDARD PROBLEMS

The conference on unemployment insurance organised by the British League of Nations Union, and held recently at the London School of Economics, threw an interesting sidelight upon the difficulties facing the League of Nations in its efforts to get uniform standards and methods applied in different parts of a world that has become for so many purposes a physical unity. A representative of the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company pointed out that in China not only is there no form of unemployment insurance, at any rate as it is understood in the West, but also no demand for its institution. Under the capitalist system as it has developed in Europe, unemployment, occasional and intermittent in normal times, abnormal at times of crisis such as the present, is regarded as a necessary incident of industry, and since it comes upon the worker through no fault of his own, the moral sense of the community has generally of recent years at least required Governments to organise provision in some form or other against it. In China and in that other vast sub-continent of India, similar development has not taken place. The great masses of the population still follow agricultural pursuits and when a member of the family is unable for any reason to earn his own living, he relies for support upon his relatives. He belongs to an ancient civilisation, of which the family rather than the individual is the focal unit. The machine age which has revolutionised European Society has as yet hardly touched the life of Asia. The comparative few who have drifted to the towns dislike committing themselves to "industry." They prefer to work as casual labourers rather than to enter into any form of binding contract. The bonds of the family system may have begun to weaken, but the factory-worker has not yet learned to regard himself as a member of an industrial proletariat, dependent for his rights and advantages as an individual upon any community sense or any State-controlled machinery. The conclusion to which one seems driven is that while the general purpose of the League's International Labour Organisation is sound, as it is expressed, for instance, in Article 28 of the League's Covenant, viz: "to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labour for men, women and children . . . in all countries" the methods by which this goal is approached cannot be of a cast-iron uniformity. Of course this has been largely recognised already. In the Washington Hours Convention, the first effort made by the I.L.O. to obtain a universal eight hours day and 48 hours week for workers, special provisions were expressly made for the application of the Convention in a modified form to Japan and India, while other Asiatic countries, such as China, Siam and Persia were entirely excluded pending further consideration. The point that seems worth making is that while in no wise depreciating the excellent work done by the International Labour Organisation it should be more widely recognised that it has perhaps inevitably concentrated upon conditions as they exist in countries whose life has been revolutionised by the introduction of the machine. The conditions of labour for the other, larger, half of the world's population also need the most careful and understanding consideration, with a view to the raising of standards of living among them on practicable and acceptable lines.

Red Noses

Human beings have always been rather too good at jumping to conclusions, and at being deceived by appearances. That is why the red nose has been so often misunderstood. It has been left to an expert to go to the root of the matter. He has investigated the causes of this facial phenomenon, and has found that it is a popular illusion that the red nose is generally an indication of what he calls "long-continued alcoholic imbibitions." The vast majority of the red-nosed ones are total abstainers, even in the United States. Some sort of apology, therefore, seems to be called for from music-hall comedians and others, who have long made sport of the rosy nose, from which, by the way, they themselves have not always been immune. Red noses have their origin in a multitude of causes, all more or less lawful, natural, and honourable. In view of the expert's findings, the only safe thing to do, when confronted with a specimen of quite arresting redness, is to conclude at once, and without any qualification whatsoever, that its owner is a total abstainer. The weather, too, has a distinct influence on the temperature and hue of the nose. January produces more red noses than one might care to count, unless of a pertinaciously statistical turn of mind. By one of Nature's little jokes, the red nose also becomes embarrassingly common in the height of summer not less than in the depth of winter. From this it would appear that the nose is one of her safety valves, whereby she contrives to keep the human organism in good working order despite great and sudden changes of temperature. Perhaps, under a more just system of civilisation than that which exists at present, the red nose will be recognised as a pointer to the existence of prodigious reserves of energy, ability, and adaptability in its fortunate owner. Then it will be possible for the most temperate of us to glow nasally as much and as often as we please, without a sense of guilt or shame. As it is, the person with a red nose is at a distinct and wholly unfair disadvantage. No one will take him quite seriously. He is never promoted over the heads of his seniors, nor even over the heads of his juniors. Everyone expects him to crack up sooner or later, without the slightest warning, or to abscond with the petty cash, or to commit some other enormity. Women have abolished the red nose, at least to outward seeming. Their powder puffs have saved them from its ignominy. But the red-nosed man, scorning such aids, is defenceless and without hope. He will not even paint his cheeks to match. Though this may indicate a large element of stubbornness in his nature, he is, on the whole, more to be pitied than blamed, more sinned against than sinning.

FAMOUS PRAYERS

By E. L. ALLEN

Of course, like everything else, prayer has had its history and it has gone through great changes. It began with such things as the householder's petition for long life, good harvests, and male children or the witch-doctor's charm to bring rain, or the ritual dance of the young men of the tribe before they set out on the war-trail. But in process of time it has learned unselfishness, and at least in its best exponents it has become the pure, disinterested longing of the human heart after what is highest and best. It began with the business-like request for ten mares, a stallion, and a camel which actually occurs along with much of a higher order in the sacred books of the old Persian religion, and it has reached the cry of the Indian mystic, "From the unreal lead me to the real, from the darkness lead me to the light."

One of the earliest prayers in Western literature is to be found in Homer. The hero Patroclus lies dead but the Greeks stand their ground and stubbornly contest with the Trojans the possession of his corpse. In the midst of the struggle, all at once the sky is overcast and darkness adds to the confusion of the combat. Ajax lifts his eyes to heaven: "Father Zeus," he cries, "send light and save us. Clear the sky and grant sight to our eyes, and even if it is Thy will that we should perish, at least let us perish in the light." That is a prayer that we might do well to take up, and use for ourselves to-day.

Then there is another Greek prayer which is worth knowing. It is from Plato, who records it as a prayer of Socrates. Socrates and Phaedrus are sitting under the shade of a plane-tree by the river's brink, and when they have finished their conversation it is suggested that prayer would be fitting in such a scene before they leave it. So Socrates prays as follows: "Beloved Pan, and all ye other gods who abide here, grant me to be beautiful in the inner man, and all I have of outer things to be at peace with those within. May I count the wise man only rich. And may my store of gold be such as none but the good can bear." What does he mean by the last sentence? He will not despise prosperity, he knows it may be a helper to the good life, and poverty is not of itself a good. But he asks that only such a measure of prosperity shall come his way as shall not imperil his character.

Finally, there is a prayer than which I know none more wonderful. Like the other two I have given, it is not a Christian prayer. We have it from a woman-mystic who lived in Persia in the eighth century of our era. It speaks the language of a human love that has broken through all those boundary-walls we tend to erect around the love of God, lest it should come too freely to our fellows. It is the purest expression I know of that utter unselfishness in which true prayer consists. "O Allah! if I worship Thee for fear of Hell, send me to Hell; and if I worship Thee in hopes of Paradise, withhold Paradise from me; but if I worship Thee for Thine own sake, then withhold not from me the Eternal Beauty. Give to Thine enemies whatsoever Thou hast assigned to me of this world's goods, and to Thy friends whatsoever Thou hast assigned to me in the Life of the Hereafter, for Thou Thyself art sufficient for me."

MACHINE COWARDS

By Norman Tiptaft

In an age when even the children are born mechanically minded, when we have achieved a greater control of power than the world has ever known, people are becoming afraid of the machine that the heroism and ingenuity and labour of generations has constructed.

The whisper is "going round": "Watch the machine! It is dangerous! It takes away men's jobs! It means bread lines and unemployment queues. The machine is an evil thing, a thing of terror by night and pestilence by day."

Before the days of the machine, men were happy and content. The ploughman plodded homeward his weary way, secure in the knowledge that his labour was not in vain and that his living was secure. The craftsman fashioned his wares, knowing that for good craftsmen there was always good living to be had.

Men were free—they were individual; to-day they are bound to the machine and standardised. The old slave of the lamp was a fairy-tale for children to laugh at; the new slave of the moving belt, the travelling crane, the dynamo, is a tragedy that makes men weep.

"The machine has made life big and vast, and in making it so it has left no room for the little things. Let us break the machine, since it has wrought on us all this evil!"

Now, this is a cowardly attitude; behind it is a slave psychology, the idea that work is good for its own sake; that long hours, arduous toil, scanty earnings, a low standard of life, in some way or other are good for people. So, rather than use our brain to master the machine with its possibilities of an ever-expanding life for all peoples, it is better to destroy the machine, and forget ten thousand years of progress, to go back because we are too cowardly to go forward.

We know how to harness power through the petrol engine and the electric current to produce the things we need. We know how to transport things when we have made them to people who need them at the ends of the earth. We know how to make not only the necessities of life for the whole world but many of the luxuries as well, and, knowing these things, we are afraid.

Why? The brain that devised the machine can surely control the machine of its devising. Not in fear of the thing man has created but in the mastery of it lies the only way to that sunnier society which our children will enter in the years that are coming.

The Very Idea!

"I WILL"

By Mr. Kelly, Misogynist.

ARE YOU MARRIED?

Why not?

ARE WE MARRIED?

Why bring that up?

Most men make at least one fatal mistake in the course of their lives. Some, of course, get married twice, and remain for years as an indictment against the S.P.C.A.

To-day, ladies and gentlemen, we propose to discourse learnedly on the subject of marriage and Man's Inhumanity to Man (with apologies to a poet named Buttriss).

It's years since we took the plunge but we've never been able to get our head above water since. A fellow journalist and rival—in short, no friend of ours—reported the ceremony. We will hide nothing. This is what he wrote:—

WEDDING BILLS.

The 'I' will be Knocked Out of Kelly Now.

MARRIED AT LAST

The bitter sobbing of the bride's mother and the howling of the confectioner who had supplied the cake on credit mingled with wheezing of the organ yesterday afternoon as Edward Kelly took young, unsophisticated, Molly Muldoon as his bride.

The bridegroom, wearing the same suit as on the occasion of his first wedding was supported (with difficulty) by Mr. P. Watkins.

The bride entered the church in the arms of a boy friend who subsequently gave her away, refusing to accept payment. Kelly wouldn't have paid in any case though he might have signed a chit through force of habit.

The parson said "Edward, will you take this girl, Molly to be your wedded wife, etc. etc."

The groom caused a riot by absent-mindedly replying "Don't mind if I do."

Hundreds of the happy couple's friends gathered at the reception and sang "No wonder She's a blushing bride" in raucous voices.

Slowly the bridegroom, drunk himself into a state of hopeless intoxication—and may we say, in passing, that on Page 6 appears reference to a summons by Gande Price and Co for goods supplied to E. Kelly.

There was lots more in the report but the Editor says the Telegraph is a respectable paper and we mustn't re-print such things.

And so it appears that the full and complete story of our downfall cannot be told.

But if we can't tell our story, we can and will give some advice to the Young People of To-day.

THE SAFEST HAT.

The bowler hat, as we were saying, or attempting to say, has fallen on evil days, but when its manifold virtues are more widely appreciated, it will be so much in demand that there will not be nearly enough bowlers to go round.

After reading a correspondence in the newspapers, we have come to the conclusion that there are few of the dangers of life against which the bowler does not afford adequate protection.

Whether one falls on one's head, or something falls upon it, the bowler saves the situation, and, incidentally, a valuable life.

It is a buffer as well as a crash helmet, for there is at least one case on record of a pedestrian who, finding himself lying on the road at the mercy of the passing traffic, pointed his bowler-covered head, at an approaching baby car, and routed it.

DANGERS OF LIFE.

Many who follow dangerous callings wear the bowler, not so much for elegance but as a shield against such mischances as the dropping of a brick or a hammer upon their heads. And as we all follow dangerous callings in these days, it seems to me that we should all wear bowlers.

Their more mercenary owners might exploit the publicity possibilities of these hats by letting them out for advertisements of pills, powders, potions, or puddings. There seems to be nothing sacred from these publicity bugs. They'd snap up the spaces.

"You see, we were secretly divorced before anyone learned of our secret marriage."

SOVIET PIQUE

Moscow, March 26.
The Public Prosecutor has refused to accept the offer of Metropolitan Vickers to stand bail for all its employees, British and Russian, arrested in connection with the sabotage allegations.

The refusal is based on the ground that the offer contained an unwarranted expression of opinion on the innocence of the accused and the necessity for a trial.—Reuter.

SOVIET ATTITUDE

The Tass Agency reports M. Litvinoff, the Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, as saying: "Concretely and practically, the proposal claims of Britain amount to a proposal to exempt from Soviet jurisdiction all British subjects, thereby warranting them to commit any crime with impunity and authorising delinquencies on their part."

In such a situation an investigation of a charge of crime brought against an Englishman would have to be stopped the moment his government expressed a conviction of his innocence, despite available data and proofs and in discharge even of the depositions of the accused.

"It is sufficient to formulate such proposals," M. Litvinoff continued, "for it to be obvious that they are unacceptable to any government of an independent country and cannot be discussed."

DATA AND PROOFS.

"In the event that there exists data and proofs that a crime is being committed by someone, the authorities responsible for the observance of the laws and the safety of a country are obliged to take measures for the prevention of the crime, to verify at an inquiry the data and proofs and in this manner establish the guilt or innocence of the accused and the motives for the crime."

"This is the inevitable procedure in all countries. It is not only in the U.S.S.R. that foreigners are arrested. Abroad, quite recently, there have occurred cases of the arrest and sentence of foreigners holding quite prominent positions and charges against foreign representatives of large banks. Such happenings cannot be avoided and they should not be permitted to influence international relations."

PAST EXPERIENCE.

"In the U.S.S.R.," proceeded M. Litvinoff, "there are living hundreds and thousands of Germans, Americans and other foreign nationals who suffer no persecution. During the period of the existence of relations between the U.S.S.R. and Great Britain, hundreds of Englishmen have arrived in the U.S.S.R., lived here and departed without once being subjected to arrest. Finally, the representatives of Metropolitan Vickers have lived here nearly ten years and hitherto nothing has happened to them. Such measures as arrest and prosecution are adopted by our authorities only for serious cause and when in the interests of safety and the safeguarding of State property. It would be wrong if such episodes were to affect political and commercial relations between the U.S.S.R. and Great Britain which are equally profitable to both countries."

The accused Britons are to be charged under Article 58 of the Soviet Criminal Code. The investigation is said to be approaching an end and the State Political Department will transmit the case shortly to the Supreme Court of the U.S.S.R. where the case will be heard.

MORE BICYCLE MISHAPS

TWO DURING THE WEEK-END

Accidents involving push bicycles are becoming more prevalent. During the week-end, two further mishaps were reported to the police, one occurring in the Mongkok district and the other on the Ma Tau Kok Road, Kowloon City.

Chan Luk, reported that while riding a bicycle in Nathan Road, he collided with a rickshaw, when turning into Nelson Street, near the Mongkok Fire Station. The rickshaw's passenger, a Chinese, was

MUI-TSAI CASE ADJOURNED

ACCUSED WOMAN ABSENT

In order that the defence might produce a certificate of a known Western medical practitioner, Mr. Schofield, at the Central Police Court this morning, adjourned until to-morrow a case in which a Chinese married woman, of 145 Lockhart Road, was charged in connection with cruelty and non-registration of her mui-tsai, aged 15 years. It is alleged the girl was beaten with a cane on the arms, legs and back.

When the case was called, defendant's brother appeared and produced a letter stating that his sister was ill, and was being attended to by a Chinese doctor.

His Worship, "I would like a known Western practitioner to certify as to the defendant's illness. She need not be seen by him, by merely for him to certify."

Sub-inspector H. W. Fraser requested his Worship to examine the girl, as the cane marks were fading.

The mui-tsai was put into the witness box, where his Worship examined her.

GAOL TERM FOR SNATCHER

ARRESTED ON A ROOF

Sentence of six months' hard labour, with twelve strokes of the birch, was passed by Mr. Schofield in the Central Magistracy this morning, on an unemployed Chinese, who pleaded guilty to snatching a wristlet watch from a woman, Kwok Yuet-kwai, on the staircase of 112 Jaffe Road, Wanchai.

Inspector McClelland, said that on Saturday night the complainant was returning home, and on reaching the first floor landing, the defendant, who had apparently followed her from behind, snatched the watch from her left wrist. Instead of running down to the street, the thief ran upstairs. The woman raised the alarm, and an Indian police constable, who was in the vicinity, came on the scene and proceeded to the roof. The defendant was arrested crouching on an adjoining roof.

hurled to the ground, receiving slight abrasions to the left elbow. In a second report to the Traffic Department, Mak Mau, driver of a Sanitary Department motor-lorry, said he was "proceeding along Ma Tau Kok Road and when near the Rope Factory a man riding a push bicycle collided with the lorry. The youth received slight injuries to his face, but refused to be sent to hospital for treatment."

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

MELANCHOLY IS A KIND OF DEATH THAT HAUNTS OUR ISLAND, AND OFTEN CONVEYS HIMSELF TO US IN AN EASTERLY WIND.—Addison.

The s.s. On Lee, which went aground near Kowloon, was pulled off by H.M.S. Clela and returned to Hong Kong yesterday.

Mr. M. B. King, of the Dragon Motor Company, drew Ballyhoowood in the Irish Sweep on the Grand National, and receives £660 as his prize.

At the Criminal Sessions this morning before Mr. Justice Wood, Kwok Fing for breach of a deportation order was further adjourned until the April Criminal Sessions.

Sentence of six months' hard labour was imposed by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning on a Chinese who had in his possession 21 counterfeit Hongkong ten-cent coins. The defendant was arrested whilst purchasing a packet of cigarettes at the Chinese recreation ground in Hollywood Road.

The health bulletin of Eastern ports for the week ended March 18 shows the following cases of infectious diseases and deaths therefrom:—Plague.—Bassett 4 cases 3 deaths, Bombay 1 case 1 death, Batavia 1 case 1 death, Foon-Peh 2 cases 2 deaths, Calcutta—Calcutta 53 cases 25 deaths, Saigon 1 case. Small-pox.—Bombay 1 case, Alexandria 82 cases 23 deaths, Port Said 2 cases, Suez 2 cases, Beirut 11 cases, Bassett 2 cases 1 death, Bombay 341 cases 178 deaths, Calcutta 392 cases 281 deaths, Cochín 2 cases, Karachi 22 cases 12 deaths, Madras 143 cases 27 deaths, Rangoon 2 cases, 1 death, Natal Province 2 cases, Bangkok 2 cases, Saigon 1 case, Tourane 3 cases, Macao 2 cases, 2 deaths, Amoy 17 cases, Shanghai 7 cases.

KOWLOON DOCK MEETING

INVESTIGATION INTO AFFAIRS

NET LOSS OF $432,000

A hopeful view of the future was taken by Mr. J. P. Warren, who presided at the annual meeting of the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company this morning. Mr. Warren pointed out that in Great Britain more vessels were ordered during the first three months of 1933 than during the whole of 1932. In the Far East, however, shipping interests were subjected, not only to the general depression, but to the repercussions from the Sino-Japanese trouble.

After allowing for depreciation and other expenses, the net loss for the year was disclosed as $432,819.93.

A spontaneous tribute was paid to the Board of Directors by Mr. J. F. Wright, Jr., in seconding the motion for the adoption of the report and balance sheet.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

Addressing the shareholders, Mr. J. P. Warren said:

The gross profit is approximately $43,000 less than last year, the main causes for reduced earnings, as in recent years, being fluctuating exchange and shortage of work.

The net loss for the year amounted to $432,819.93, which compares favourably with the year 1931 when it is taken into consideration that provision had to be made for extraordinary expenses in connection with the retirement of Mr. R. M. Dyer, extra depreciation and certain sums written off in respect of outstandings against steamers, which it is not expected to recover, amounting in all to a total of $286,627.90, $180,000 of which will not be recurring.

After making the above allowances and bringing in from reserve the sum of $400,000 and adding the sum of $155,687.96 brought forward from last account, there remains a balance of $112,868.03 to be carried forward.

In regard to the figure allowed for depreciation I may say that the large sums set aside in the good years have been of offset in the leaner years which followed and your board consider it prudent to make each year bear its due proportion of depreciation.

Stock in hand amounts to $2,265,272.34 as against $2,132,131.53 at the end of 1931 and is conservatively valued.

The overdraft is roughly $153,000 more than last year. Interest charges however show a slight reduction. Plant and Buildings have been maintained at the usual standard of excellence, and the upkeep of same has been paid out of revenue.

MR. DYER'S RESIGNATION.

It is with great regret that your Board has to report the resignation from the Company's service in October last of Mr. R. M. Dyer, who was its Chief Manager for 23 years. During that period, Mr.

Four cases of small-pox, two from Kowloon and two from Victoria, one case of diphtheria and one imported case of typhoid were reported to the Health authorities on Friday.

Dr. E. L. Allen will deliver a lecture on "Personal Religion" to the University Christian Association to-day, at 8 p.m. in the Union Assembly Room at the University.

Father G. Byrne, S. J. will give his Presidential Address on "The Problems of Education in Hongkong" to the University Education Society on Wednesday, March 29, at 8 p.m. in the Union Assembly Room.

A parcel containing two books and some private papers, bearing the characters Mau Sang Tong, has been picked up near the railway bridge at Tai Po and taken to the Tai Po Police Station, where it awaits a claimant. The police also found a white metal watch in Fleming Road, Wanchai. The owner may have it on application to the Wanchai Police Station.

On a charge of larceny of a spanner from Mr. S.C.P. Amery's motor car in Statue Square yesterday a Chinese who appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning was sentenced to three months' hard labour and two years' police supervision. The defendant, in 1930, was given one year's hard labour and twenty-four strokes of the birch for larceny from the person.

A special Sunday School Flower Service was held at the Union Church, Kowloon, yesterday morning at which the Rev. E. L. Allen officiated and the speaker was Mrs. Thomas of the Diocesan Girls' School. Each child brought flowers which were placed on the Communion table and in the afternoon distributed by the Rev. Mr. Allen and Mr. A. W. Ingram to various charitable institutions in the Colony. The choir rendered the anthem "Teach me Thy Way, O Lord."

Dyer, at all times, served the Company with the utmost loyalty and zeal. His single-mindedness of purpose and generosity of character are well known to you all, and I desire to place on record our keen appreciation thereof and our best wishes for his future prosperity.

Mr. E. Cock has taken over the duties of Chief Manager and your Board have the utmost confidence in his ability to fill the vacancy.

"During the year orders" have been received for four small motor vessels, including the three Vehicular Ferries, the first two of which are now running and the tonnage of steamers docked amounted to 624,187 tons as against 629,819 tons in 1931.

WORST YEAR IN HISTORY.

The year 1932 was probably the worst which shipping ever experienced and the large amount of tonnage laid up is bound to reflect on the earnings of a company like ours.

The last quarter of 1932 furnished very depressing statistics regarding shipbuilding while repair work, which in the absence of new building, might be expected to show not so great a decline, is still below normal and work can only be secured at low rates.

In Great Britain, however, more vessels have been ordered during the first three months of 1933 than during the whole of 1932, laid up tonnage was 10% less in February this year than in August 1932, and slightly less than in the previous February, and one can only say that indications of improvement are still slight.

Here, we are subjected not only to general world wide depression but we have superimposed upon us, as it were, Far Eastern conditions which, as you know are, still rather indeterminate.

It would serve no good purpose to direct your attention to the detailed affairs of other similar concerns, and of our own it can only be said once more that we have a large capacity to earn money, that we are making efforts by the terms and service we offer to stimulate the upward movement and are ready to join in that movement when it reaches us.

RETRENCHMENT.

In addressing you from the Chair last year indicated that steps had been taken to meet the situation and further economies have since been made, and in taking such measures we have had in mind the necessity for care that our efficiency is not impaired.

In this connection it may interest you to know that the Directors have seen fit to forego their fees for the past year.

During the year a Committee of three shareholders sat to investigate the affairs of the Company and their report was handed to the Board in November last and, although some of the recommendations put forward had been under consideration by the Board, their findings were of much assistance in the general scheme of retrenchment and reorganisation and the thanks of the shareholders are certainly due to the three gentlemen in question.

During the year under review the staff have served the Company faithfully and well and I feel sure that with their loyal co-operation and assistance we shall be enabled to carry on through the bad times which we hope may be drawing to an end.

MR. LO CHUNG-KUE'S DEATH.

Before concluding I should like to place on record the loss the Dock Co. has sustained by the death of Mr. Lo Chung Kue, the late Comprodor who had been in the service of the Dock Co. for 40 years, and to extend to the relative of the deceased an expression of our deepest sympathy.

In seconding the adoption of the report and balance sheet, Mr. J. F. Wright Jr., expressed, on behalf of shareholders, an appreciation of the obvious work done gratuitously on behalf of the Company by the Board of Directors.

"The Board of Directors have given up their fees—a gesture not often shown in Hongkong," added, Mr. Wright. Appreciation of the work done by the Committee of Shareholders was also expressed by the speaker.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Upon the motion of Mr. J. H. Keewick and Mr. Li Tsok Yuen, Messrs. J. P. Warren and Alan Cameron were re-elected as Directors.

Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews and Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming were re-elected Auditors upon the motion of Mr. P. C. Potts and Mr. G. W. Sewell. # BORDERERS' THREE VICTORIES DURING WEEK END

FINE FIELDING

INDIANS THWARTED: K.C.C. SECOND DIVISION RUNNERS-UP

HEARTS ceased to flutter at the University after Saturday afternoon when it became known that the Kowloon Cricket Club had beaten the Indian Recreation Club in the last cricket league match of the season, and that the Varsity had, as a result, won the premier championship.

It was a creditable, but not altogether unexpected achievement on the part of the Peninsula players. Their consistency throughout the season has ranked them as about the finest all-round team in the league this year, and it was this balance which did so much to shatter the hopes of the Indians.

The K.C.C. total of 125 did not, in cold figures appear a particularly formidable score, but when it received the support of such excellent bowling and extremely efficient fielding on the part of the homesters, one could appreciate, and sympathise with the task before the Indians.

FINCHER'S CATCHES.

Burnett, Goodwin, Smith and McInnes shared the bowling honours for the K.C.C., whilst E.C. Fincher completed a capital afternoon's work by dismissing A.H. Madar and A.K. Minu with dazzling catches in the slips. Madar he caught high up off Burnett, whilst Minu was sent back with a cleverly anticipated catch near the ground.

Incidentally the Fincher brothers proved conclusively that Pereira could be hit, and in putting on 69 runs rather spoilt his analysis. None the less the fast bowler bagged five victims at a cost of nine runs each.

Benwell's wicket-keeping was not too impressive, and Mr. Extras proved chief contributor to the I.R.C. total. They aggregated 25, and of these 24 were byes, and one a leg bye.

Ismail's keeping was praise-worthy, the Indian smartly stumping Teddy Fincher and Smith off Minu.

INDIANS' BLACK DAY.

Thanks to the bowling of Tucker and Wells, who between them sent back the I.R.C. second string for 66 runs—exactly 50 runs less than the R.E. total—the Kowloon Cricket Club reserves enjoy the distinction of being runners-up in the second division.

With the first five wickets falling for nine runs, the Sokumpoo team had very little hope of passing the soldiers' 116, but F.M. Arculli and A.A. Rijnjaan faced the attack with some amount of confidence and added 26 for the eighth wicket. The leading batting and bowling performances in league and friendly games follow.

ENTER BOTH SHIELD FINALS WITH S. CHINA AND NAVY

Third Division Championship Now Practically Decided

SATURDAY'S CAUSE AND EFFECT

SUCCESS comes easily to the Borderers these days. The week-end saw them enter two Shield finals and make almost certain of the third division championship.

THEIR third string now need only four points from their remaining four matches to earn the third division trophy, and this means that the Lincolns, their closest rivals must obtain the maximum points from their last five games.

THE Shield programme on Saturday produced some keen football. More decisive tackling and a better idea of the whereabouts of the goal helped the Borderers to negotiate their semi-final with the Lincolns.

SOUTH China's ultra-clever footwork nearly reacted on the performers whose finishing was ultra-dismal. Nevertheless they managed to snap the one goal necessary to qualify for the final.

(By "VERITAS").

FOR a team which had twice beaten the league leaders within three weeks, the Lincolns played very poor football against the Borderers in the senior shield semi-final on Saturday, and the result, which finally determined itself as three-nil in favour of the 24th, was never in doubt.

The Borderers played thrustful, neck-or-nothing football, refusing to be put off by the conditions, which, with a severe cross wind, were made none the less pleasant, and scored their goals by making use of opportunities, rather than by any pronounced superiority of forwards over defence.

The Lincolns were slow, wild in their passing and without a forward capable of turning to good account the many chances offered. The Borderers were distinctly the better of two not very good teams, and were by no means flattered by the score.

THE PLAYERS.

Mullane was outstanding in the 24th defence, and Podmore, by his ground he covered and the number of times he had possession of the ball earned the same distinction among the halves.

Morgan, after a bright display in the first half, appeared to lose control of his play.

Loquard, who was the only source of danger to the Borderers rearguard.

Jones schemed well, whilst Harris was a clever wing. Fourty led the line with gusto, but not too successfully, being slow in snapping up square passes.

Beyond Lieut. Loquard on the left wing, who, unsupported as he was played an excellent lone game, none of the Lincolns emerged from the match with any great credit.

The defence as a whole worked hard; they had to. But Heath's goal was far from confident, and an injury to the rearguard more penetrable.

Cork was occasionally conspicuous, but his game was one of moods and inconsistencies, whilst up forward there was far too much lying back on the part of Midley and Harding to cause the attack to become effective.

In a quiet unobtrusive manner, Baldry played a good game, but he was closely watched by Morrison and often receiving had passes, and his work rendered doubly difficult.

Davis scored first for the Borderers and Underwood added the second before the opening half had expired, following a dazzling run from the half way line.

Fourty netted the third in the closing stages, following a period of scrappy midfield exchanges.

TIT BITS OF WEEK END PROGRAMME

IT was hardly a representative South China team which engaged a strong Combined Services XI in a Charity match on the Club enclosure yesterday. The services were very definite in winning, scoring thrice without reply.

BALDRY, ex-Interporter, and a regular duty man on the left wing for the Lincolns senior team, had a field day, accomplishing the "hat-trick"—all three goals being beauties.

YESTERDAY, in fact, provided two other individual goal-scoring achievements. Matthias scored three piercing the Athletic goal on behalf of the Army Juniors, and Lister helping himself to the same quota playing for the Engineers against Talook.

JUDGED by his performance, yesterday, Shirras learnt something about Wong Mee-shun on Saturday. He more than held his own in the many duels with the Chinese centre-forward, and was, in fact, the shining light of the game.

MULLANE seems to be getting better and better. Even without his trustworthy colleague, Morrison, he put up a great show on Sunday. Ash too offered excellent support, and with Heath's regained form, the services defence was impregnable.

THE absence of so many of the Chinese "stars" robbed the game of much of its interest, but the play of the Services was always delightful to watch, and the several charity matches which have been played this season, as well as the representatives games against Shanghai and the Lai Wah Cup encounters, have conclusively demonstrated that the Navy and Army can turn out a very powerful side indeed.

LEAGUE games produced the expected results, the only possible exception being the failure of the R.A.S.C. occupying second position in the third division, against the Air Force. It anticipated the fliers grabbing a point, but they had to have both, and thus ruin entirely, the Corps' challenge to the Borderers.

THE Lincolns won with ease against St. Joseph's, but it did not do them a lot of good, as the 24th also added points from their tie with the Athletic yesterday, and they will now have to make more than one slip to be deprived of the championship.

THE Navy and Borderers qualified for the Junior Shield, thus fulfilling general expectations. Both showed themselves to be sound working combinations, and the final is bound to produce a fine struggle.

PRETTY BUT NOT EFFECTIVE

S. CHINA WITHOUT MARKSMEN

IF the theory that clever and scientific football will, in the long run, beat the more bustling and coercive type of game, then South China will probably win the Senior Shield this year.

But to do so they will have to exhibit better shooting powers than was displayed against the Navy on Saturday, when they entered the final of the competition by the only goal scored.

It is an old and platitudinous phrase, but it aptly fits the occasion, when it is remarked that South China did "everything" but score. When it came to pure football, the Chinese could give the Navy dozens of points, but for a long time it appeared that it was going to get them nowhere. Goal scoring opportunities were missed by the dozen in the first half, and in this respect the whole of the South China vanguard were at fault.

REFUSING GIFT GOALS.

And there was a period when, after their goal had morally fallen half a dozen times, that the Navy might have themselves found the net, and thus, probably, have altered the whole complexion of the game. But both teams were infected with the same germ of "erroritis", and gift goals, like horses, were looked in the mouth.

Of course it wasn't entirely the fault of the Chinese marksmen, but that South China finished only a goal to the good. Woodman, for one, had quite a lot to say about it, and his game was one of the most entertaining features of the afternoon.

Splendid work was also accomplished by Burhan and Newell, the Navy were hardly up to standard. The half backs could not begin to understand the intricate pattern-weaving of Wong Mee-shun and Co., with the result that the Chinese were always able to develop up to and within the penalty area.

Even Shirras experienced the futility of opposing such machine-like movements, and although he wisely concentrated on holding Pau Ka-ping, his mission made the task of his colleagues very much more difficult.

QUEER LOOKING TEAM.

Apart from the wretched shooting of the attackers, the Chinese played good football, and were always dominant. It was a strange looking combination which took the field, with Tam Kong-pak at back, and neither Li Tin-sang nor Lau Mau in the team. But Tam was brilliant in defence, and the magnificent work of Leung Wing-chai, Tong Kwan and Li Kwok-wai was in itself sufficient to nip in the bud any efforts on the part of the Navy forwards.

Wong Mee-shun, who netted the only goal, was also the only Chinese sharpshooter with any sense of direction. For the rest they indulged in "pretty-pretties" up to the goal line and then petered out to give Woodman goal kick after goal kick.

DECISION NOT YET OFFICIAL

POLICE COMMITTEE TO MEET

Mr. Allen, Hon. Secretary of the Police Hockey team this afternoon informed the Telegraph that the decision of the Police to withdraw from the Mamak Hockey League, as reported in the adjoining column is not yet official.

The Police Committee is to meet and to come to a final decision over the matter. There is, in fact, every indication that the rather unfortunate matter will be settled satisfactorily. Alterations have been made in this week's Mamak League programme. Tomorrow the Radio will play the 20th Battery, this to take the place of the Police v 20th Battery match, and on Wednesday, the Police will oppose H.M.S. Wishart.

"TELEGRAPH" IDEA ADOPTED

Following upon the Telegraph's suggestion for trials to be held before the selection of the Rest to meet the champions of the Caer Clark Cup, a Whites v Colours match has been arranged to be played on the D.G.S. ground at 5.15 p.m. to-morrow.

The following sides have been selected:
Whites:—J. Bryson; M. Basto and A. Fowler; L. Xaxier, M. Alves and M. Bryson; P. Gittens, M. Mason, M. Wolley, A. Alves and O. Brown.
Colours:—B. Almada; C. Osmond and G. White; I. Woolley, E. Beavis and H. Gutierrez; E. Woolley, C. Silva, M. Smith, E. Dalziel and M. Remedios.

The Rest v Champions will be played on the Y.M.C.A. ground at 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 8.

THE CHINESE R.C.

The annual meeting of the Chinese Recreation Club was held at Causeway Bay yesterday afternoon, with Mr. Ng Sze-kwong, President in the chair.

The principal business of the meeting was the amendment of the constitution. The meeting invested the necessary authority to rebuild the roof of the club house which was badly eaten by white ants. The open mixed doubles tournament was again organised by the committee and the winners had been M. W. Lo and Miss Enid Lo. The Club championship was won by Tsui Wan-ping, whilst the doubles event went to Ho Ka-lau and Yew Man-kin.

The following 15 members were elected to serve on the incoming committee:—Messrs. Ng Sze-kwong, Ho Ka-lau, Li Shu-hing, Lo Man-kin, H. S. Mok, Chiu Chun-chiu Mok Hing-chiu, Lo Tak-cheuk, Ho Ka-chi, M. K. Incognitos, 15 13 1 4 0 6 27

"Owing to the mis-handling of fixtures by the secretary of the Mamak committee the Police, as a protest, have decided to withdraw from the League".

The above statement was made to me last evening by an official of the Police Mamak hockey team following a misunderstanding in regard to a match which was to be played yesterday with the Incognitos.

The circumstances surrounding the decision are puzzling. It would appear that on Friday, the secretary of the tournament, Mr. A.E.P. Guest, arranged fixtures for the Police team with the Varsity for yesterday morning and the Incognitos yesterday afternoon. He accordingly notified members of the teams on Saturday morning and in the afternoon the games were confirmed with the Captains. The Police University game was duly played but during the match the Police became aware of the fact that the Incognitos were to play the 24th Battery that afternoon. At the stated time the three teams turned up on the Marina ground and the Police claimed the fixture, but the Mamak secretary stated he had arranged for the Incogs to play the Battery and the Police had not been consulted. The Incognitos decided to play the Battery and forfeit the two points to the Police. The latter claimed the game, deeming themselves to be the stronger combination, but they subsequently decided to take the course mentioned above.

Personally I don't like the attitude taken although they were I think, possibly justified. Such a step is not in the best interests of sport for it is certain to hinder the smooth running of the competition. A much better arrangement would have been to either try and arrange the match at a future date or for the Police to have accepted the points from the Incogs and remained in the League.

MAMAK SECRETARY DENIES FAULT WAS HIS

Mr. A.E.P. Guest Mamak Hon. Secretary this morning informed me that he had received a letter from the secretary of the Police team laying the entire blame on him. But according to Mr. Guest "it was a case of general misunderstanding."

"On Saturday afternoon," he said I received a phone message from E. V. Reed, captain of the Incognitos, who stated that he had received a letter from the Battery that they had arranged the ground for the Incognitos 24th Battery game for Sunday afternoon. Since the Police were playing two games that day he, Mr. Reed thought it would be doing the Police a good turn if he was to cancel the Incognitos-Police match which had also been fixed for Sunday afternoon.

MESSAGE SENT TO POLICE.

"I agreed," said Mr. Guest, and told him to notify the Police of his intention. Reed phoned Allen, the Police secretary, but was unable to get in touch with him so I personally sent a message to the Water Police Station which apparently did not reach him. As a result the three teams turned up to play on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon.

"The Police were originally down to play the Incognitos and I had made arrangements for the Marina ground for that match."

INCOS NOW THIRD.

In their game with the University yesterday morning at Caroline Hill, the Police were defeated by two goals to nil.

The Incognitos improved their position in the Mamak table yesterday when they defeated the 24th Battery on the Marina ground by three goals to one. The game was fast and interesting and the scores for the Incogs being Pinto, R. C

L.T.A. Annual Meeting This Week

The annual general meeting of affiliated Clubs of the Hongkong Lawn Tennis Association will take place at the Secretary's Board Room, Post Office Building on Friday, March 31 at 5.30 p.m.

The report states: Despite the efforts of your committee in securing a site for the proposed L.T.A. "Home," and the approval given to this by an extraordinary general meeting of the Association, this scheme has had, for the present, to be abandoned. No support was forthcoming from the clubs for the approved scheme to issue Bearer Debenture Certificates to raise the money necessary to carry out the project, and in view of this, the permit to occupy the ground was withdrawn.

Your committee, although regretting the enforced abandonment of this scheme has not lost sight of the necessity for the Association to acquire its own ground for the conducting of Championships, Interclub and Exhibition tennis in Hongkong. Interclub Matches—Shanghai sent down a men's team to take part in an Interclub match in October, when they were successful in taking away the Taigat Cup after a very fine series of matches. Shanghai won the tournament by three matches to two, Hongkong winning one doubles and one singles. We are indebted to the Kowloon Cricket Club for the assistance they gave in providing an excellent court and for other facilities which enabled the Interclub to be successfully staged. Unfortunately, Shanghai were unable to send down a ladies team, and Hongkong retained the trophy unchanged.

The year's activities also signalled the first official Interclub tennis between Hongkong and Canton. A Hongkong team visited Canton on January 23 and 24 and were beaten by four matches to one. Visitors.—In April Messrs. Harada and Nunoi, prominent Japanese tennis players, passed through Hongkong on their return from Australia to Japan, and gave exhibition matches at the Hongkong Cricket Club ground. Mr. E. D. Andrews paid a return visit to the Colony in September and kindly appeared at the Hongkong Cricket Club. His display was a valuable experience to local players and a source of keen entertainment to the public.

Various other leading Japanese players passed through the Colony and were afforded facilities for practice at the Hongkong Cricket Club and the Kowloon Cricket Club.

Finance.—The form of Accounts for this year has been changed from a Receipts and Payments Account to an Income and Expenditure Account for the year 1932. The financial position as at 31st December, 1932, is shown in the form of a supplementary account of surplus balance.

The result of the year's working is a net loss of $322.25.

The amount of $1,681.10 is shown as accumulated surplus from 1931. Outstanding at the close of the year amounted to $1,063.34, of which $154.00 has since been collected. The co-operation of Clubs concerned to settle these outstanding is essential. The Accounts have been audited by Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews.

Tennis League.

Thirty-six teams, the lowest number for three or four years, took part in the Tennis League during the summer of 1932. In 1931, 41 teams were entered and in 1930 there were 39, but the decrease last season was accounted for by the temporary withdrawal of the Japanese Club, as well as the Deutscher Klub. The Filipino Club made a welcome return to the league, and the Police Recreation Club made their debut in "C" Division.

The season was successful in every respect. The Chinese Recreation Club carried off the A. B. and C. Division championships, accomplishing this outstanding performance for the fourth time in the history of the Club.

The United Services Recreation Club won the Mixed Doubles League for the first time, depriving the Indian Recreation Club of the shield which they had held since 1931.

Mr. W. T. Stanton's Lucky Bird, 168 lbs. (Mr. Stanton) 2

Mr. H. C. Macnamara's Red Leaves, 168 lbs. (Mr. Stocker) 3

Won by many lengths; many lengths. Pari-mutuel: Win $5.40; Places $3.40; $5.20; $9.30.

INTERPORTER WEDS.

DR. J. A. R. SELBY AND MISS E. B. BLACKBURN

The pretty wedding was solemnized at the Union Church, Kennedy Road on Saturday, the Rev. B. G. Powell officiating, between Dr. John Alexander Robertson Selby, the well-known Interport Rugby footballer, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. A. MacDonald Selby, of Port William, Scotland, and Miss Edna Beatrice Blackburn, oldest daughter of Mr. L. J. Blackburn.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly attired in a dress of white satin lined with pink georgette, with pearl button trimmings, created by Mme. D'Oby. She carried a sheath of arum lilies and orange blossoms. She was attended by Misses Joyce Harris-Walker and Vivienne Blackburn, who wore beautiful dresses of white organdie with gold tissue sashes and gold shoes, and carried sheaths of blue larkspur. Miss Abol Dovey, flower girl, wore a similar dress and carried a posy of blue pansies, and Master Peter Harris-Walker, page, wore a white sailor suit.

Mrs. C. Harris-Walker was maid of honour and was attired in a black lace ensemble, another creation by Mme. D'Oby.

Mr. Alan Gordon was best man while the duties of groomsmen were carried out by Messrs. Percy Allison and A. P. Hall-Thompson. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Gloucester Building, following which the couple left for Fanling where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride's going away dress was a green satin ensemble by Mme. D'Oby with a short white fur coat.

Another Ceremony

Another wedding of considerable local interest, particularly in Police circles, took place at the Union Church, Hongkong, on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Elsie Edith Wiltshire, daughter of the late Mr. J. Wiltshire and Mrs. A. A. Lewis, was married to Mr. John Orem, of the Hongkong Police Force, late of Carnoustie, Scotland. The Rev. E. G. Powell officiated.

The bride was given away by her step-father, Mr. A. A. Lewis, and looked charming in a dress of white wool fabric, with a veil and orange blossom, her bouquet being of arum lilies. She was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Wiltshire, and Miss Eileen Jones, as bridesmaids, their dresses being of floral nylon, and their bouquets composed of yellow carnations. Little Miss Maureen Chester-Woods was the flower-girl, her frock being of lemon georgette, and she carried a basket of yellow carnations.

The bride's mother was dressed in floral nylon, a creation by Madame D'Oby, who also made the bride's and bridesmaids' dresses. The duties of best-man were carried out by Mr. Harold Brown. There was a largely attended reception at Lane Crawford's restaurant after the ceremony, where the health of the happy couple was duly proposed. Mr. and Mrs. Orem left later for the honeymoon, the bride's going-away dress being of lemon georgette, with a hat to match.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

One hundred miles per hour speed racing, the world's thrilling sport, is shown in "Fast Life," the breath-taking action picture featuring William Haines at the Queen's Theatre from Thursday next. No effort has been spared to bring the realism of boat racing to the screen. The camera was evidently mounted on a craft following so close to the speeding racers that the results obtain startling effects in reproduction. How collisions were avoided, until the big boat smash-up does take place, is a marvel of combined motion picture and marine engineering. William Haines has never been offered a role with the virile punch to equal his "Sandy" in this fast-moving racing picture. He continues with the refreshing "wise-cracking" that has marked his work in previous pictures, with a new restrained performance in dramatic scenes that shows his real acting ability.

"A Farewell to Arms"

To the thousands who have read Ernest Hemingway's novel, "A Farewell to Arms," the sensitive, intelligent film version now showing at the King's Theatre, cannot be other than a fulfilment. To those who have not read the novel the story will be new, but the film will still be one of the most magnificent love romances the screen has yet produced. Catherine Barkley and Frederic Henry, as portrayed by Helen Hayes and Gary Cooper, readily take a place in the front ranks of screen lovers. Much of the credit for the film's excellence, however, must be given to Frank Borzage, the director, and Benjamin Glazer, the associate producer. These two, the two men who made "Seventh Heaven," another love story with a war background, and, in their hands, something of the quality of that other film has been brought into "A Farewell to Arms." The film is stark and real and beautiful. It is something you cannot afford to miss!

Famous Comedy Pair

Give Marie Dressler and Polly Moran something to fight about—and watch the laughs roll up. They're at it again—this time as mothers-in-law battling over the lives of their married children, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Prosperity," now showing at the Queen's Theatre. The heroines of "Caught Short" and "Politics" have as many battles as of yore, but the battles are louder and funnier. Then, too, there is a dramatic twist in the new story, and Marie does some straight character acting that tugs at the heartstrings. The story deals with two widows who are friends, in a small town, until their children get married. Each starts in to regulate the new family—and for a while, Marie goes broke, there is a run on the bank, Marie gets a job in a grocery store and figures out a way to put it on a paying basis by "grading" and "swapping." Their battles cause the youngsters to get a divorce—and then everything clashes. Marie sacrifices herself and is planning to end her life for the insurance money when Sonny comes home, with the profits of a big deal. All ends happily.

"Horse Feathers"

Arthur, Julius, Leonard and Herbert Marx are four of the best-known comedians in the world, but you've probably never heard of them. They're known to you as Harpo, Groucho, Chico and Zeppo, respectively. Collectively they're the Four Marx Brothers, and you may see them in "Horse Feathers," their latest picture, at the King's Theatre very shortly. It was in Galesburg, Ill., that Arthur, Julius and Leonard suddenly became Harpo, Groucho and Chico. Art Fisher, one of vaudeville's leading monologists, was playing poker with them after the show one night. He gave them the titles—Groucho, because Julius always looked so serious; Harpo, because Arthur always strummed the harp; and Chico, because Leonard's ability to dispose of fried chicken was well known. The fourth Marx Brother at the time was Milton, who retired during the war and was succeeded by Herbert, because he always wore rubbers, then called gum boots. And Herbert, when he took Groucho's place, took the title of Zeppo.

PRESIDENT BOAT CAPSIZES

MADISON'S MISHAP AT SEATTLE

Seattle, March 26.

The 14,000-ton American Mail liner, President Madison, suddenly capsized in the mooring dock today.

She is slowly filling with water. It is believed three of the crew are trapped.

One hundred and fifty seamen and workmen stampeded for the shore when the President Madison heeled over, with water pouring in through a hole where repair men had taken off three plates.

A call-over revealed that all except five escaped. Two Chinese swam to the quay after crawling through a port hole.

The cause of the disaster is unknown.—Reuter.

OVERSEAS CHINESE

Nanking, Mar. 26.

The Overseas Affairs Committee of the National Government met yesterday and discussed, among other things, the conditions of the Chinese immigrants in the Straits Settlement. It is understood that the Committee decided to send a number of recommendations to the Chinese Foreign Office with a view to improving the status of the Chinese immigrants through diplomatic negotiations with the British Authorities.—Reuter.

AFTER 14 YEARS.

San Francisco, Mar. 26.

The famous Mooney-Billings case—America's equivalent to the Dreyfus case—is to have another airing.

After 14 years' arbitration, the Superior Court of the United States has granted Mooney a fresh trial on the charges arising out of the dynamiting outrage in 1916.

Mooney was condemned to death on a charge of engaging in a bomb explosion on Preparedness Day in San Francisco, which killed a number of people.

Popular feeling ran high in his favour and the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Since the trial the important witnesses against Mooney and Billings have been proved to have committed perjury, and the Judge who tried them and 10 of the jurors who convicted them have declared that they no longer believe them to have been guilty. The Wickorsham Commission which recently investigated crime in America described the case as "shocking to one's sense of justice." Owing however to the strength of those business interests in California which are opposed to the release of Mooney and Billings on the ground that they are dangerous revolutionaries, none of the competent authorities in California has dared to release the men, although one Governor was urged to do so by President Wilson himself.

Witnesses who testified against them, the jury, the trial judge, and arresting police officers have admitted that Messrs. Mooney and Billings are being punished for a

FIRE DANGER IN BROTHEL EXITS LOCKED WITH GRILLES

The case of a Chinese woman charged with being the keeper of a disorderly house at Wanchai was investigated by Mr. Schofield of the Central Police to-day, from the more serious viewpoint of fire dangers.

The prosecuting Police Officer, stated that when he raided the premises this morning, he found both front and rear exits blocked by locked iron grilles. The inmates, warned of the police visit, had cleared from the floor, leaving three bluejackets inside who were asleep, unaware that they were locked in.

The same floor had been raided five times within a month, and always the police had found their way barred by the locked grilles.

The Police Officer asked the Court to deal severely with the offence, particularly in view of the possibility of these men being trapped in case of fire.

In fining the woman $150 with the alternative of two months' imprisonment, the Magistrate explained to her the reason for this heavy penalty.

DR. HODGKIN'S DEATH

A LEADING CHINA MISSIONARY

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages, London, 1933. Received, March 27, 7.10 a.m.)

London, Mar. 26. The death had occurred of Dr. Henry Theodore Hodgkin, who was at one time Secretary of the National Christian Council in China.

The late Dr. Hodgkin was Director of Study of Pangle Hill, the Quaker Graduate School of Social and Religious Study, of Wallingford, Pa., U.S.A. Born in 1877, he was a nephew of the late Dr. Thomas Hodgkin, the historian.

Educated in England, he was Chairman of the Student Volunteer Missionary Union from 1902 to 1905, and went to Chengtu, West China, as a medical missionary in the latter year. Later he returned to England and took up the position of Secretary of the Friends' Foreign Mission Association, which he held from 1910 to 1920, during which period he was also Secretary of the Board of Governors of the West China Union University.

He made extensive tours of India, Madagascar, Syria and America, lecturing on industrial, international and religious questions. From 1922 to 1929, he was Secretary of the National Christian Council of China, with headquarters at Shanghai. He was winner of the Walker Prize (University of St. Andrews) for his essay on Social Reconstruction, and was the author of numerous publications.—Reuter.

PICKPOCKETS ON WHARF

RAZOR BLADE TRICK EXPLOITED

A number of Canton passengers on the Yuet On Wharf last night were the victims of pickpockets and as a result of a report to the Police an arrest was made.

Appearing before Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning the man was charged with larceny of $10 in Canton currency from the person of an unknown man; possession of a razor blade described as an instrument fit for an unlawful purpose and preventing seizure by throwing away goods which had been unlawfully obtained.

Inspector A. E. Carey said three passengers for Canton reported to wharf constables that they had had their pockets cut and picked. A stricter search was then made by the police. When a constable went to search defendant, he threw something into the harbour. On his person were a roll of Chinese coins and the razor blade.

The officer remarked that the three victims were now destitute but there was no evidence to prove the defendant had robbed them. It was not known from whom the $10 had been stolen but as it was in a roll it was presumed to have been taken from one man.

Sentencing the defendant to nine months' hard labour, his Worship ordered that the money found on the defendant be divided among the three victims.

It was alleged by the prosecution before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning, that a shop folk who admitted the theft of a small quantity of peanut oil, had a specially-made tin, containing the oil, affixed to his girdle. Defendant, who was employed at 177 Third Street, was bound over.
